Reading Comprehension-

The Navajo Nation

The Navajo are a group of Native American people. Long ago, they lived in the deserts and mountains of the American Southwest. Today, many Navajo still live in Arizona and New Mexico.

The Navajo are very skilled at weaving. They make beautiful blankets and rugs with bright colors and patterns. They also make silver jewelry decorated with turquoise stones. These works of art are famous around the world.

Farming and raising animals were important to the Navajo. They grew corn, beans, and squash. They also raised sheep, which gave them wool for weaving.

The Navajo language is very special. It is the largest Native American language still spoken today, with about 170,000 speakers. The Navajo language is still strong, and Navajo language classes are taught at Arizona State University.

Navajo culture is rich with songs, stories, and ceremonies. Many stories teach lessons about nature, animals, and family. Ceremonies often use traditional music and sand paintings.

Today, the Navajo Nation is the largest Native American group in the United States. They are proud of their culture, and many Navajo people still speak their language, make beautiful art, and keep their traditions alive.
