

Directions: Make a copy of this Google Doc and name it with your first and last name. Example: Heather Ball P-M-I WKSH. When you complete the Google Doc then please use this link to turn in your work - Child Development Dropbox

Topic: _____

Part I – Key Points

Directions: After researching a minimum of 3 resources identify 3 key points with a complete response. A complete response means to use complete sentences to communicate your thoughts and ideas.

Three empty rounded rectangular boxes with orange borders, arranged horizontally, intended for students to write their key points.

Part II – Summarization

Directions: After reading your research write a paragraph about your finding and how it relates to the class topic being studied, analyze the material and then record your complete response below.

Part III: Analyze

Directions: Using the P-M-I Chart: Then fill in the advantages of the topic in the pluses column (P), the disadvantages or negatives in the minuses column (M), and those aspects of the topic that don't fall into either category in the interesting column (I). Use complete responses when reflecting. A complete response means using complete sentences to communicate your thoughts and ideas. There must be six complete responses in the P-M-I Chart.

P	M	I

Part IV: Application

Directions: After researching the topic please complete the chart below with complete responses.

I learned... How can I apply it to my life?	I was surprised.... I agreed or disagreed with the author(s) this way...	I should be concerned about this topic because ...
---	--	--

Part V – Written Part

Directions: Using the information from your research and from the sections above to create a written plan of how you would build your future child's self-concept in a positive way between the ages of 1 to 3.