

Mrs. Stacy Berg

Mrs. Berg is coming to the end of her 11th year teaching at Wilder Waite. Mrs. Berg says that she is a professional problem solver and that whenever there is a problem she tries to her best ability to solve these problems. In order to solve problems, she has to be kind, hard-working, and dynamic. Things tend to go more smoothly when the kids and parents are having a good day. Mrs. Berg's first degree was in early childhood education; she then went back and received a master's degree in curriculum and instruction. Mrs. Berg originally attended ROWVA high school before attending Bradley for her degree in early child development. Stacy has been the principal at Wilder Waite since the 2010-2011 school year.

Mrs. Berg says that in order to be a principal you have to have a lot of soft skills like being able to see things from a different perspective. Stacy previously worked as an early childhood teacher for about five years for District 150 then went on to teach special education for a year at Woodford County. Mrs. Berg then worked as a leader and obtained the opportunity to start a program at Northminster, and started a children's program there and ran that for about twelve years. An opportunity then came up at Dunlap, and she applied to be a principal and that's history. Stacy said you don't always know what the plan is, she never planned on being a principal but ended up getting a great lifelong opportunity.
