

Sections:

Normal - Either is the exact same as official models, or meant to be very close.

Humanoid - Humanoid or human-like models.

Undead - Anything that is undead, which can include zombies, vampires, ghosts, and more.

Fey - These are like fairies or whimsical fantasy creatures.

Elemental - These represent creatures made up of elements.

Nautical - These are water-based models.

Twisted - This is meant to be something similar and familiar to the real world, but messed-up in some notable ways.

Diseased - This is for models that clearly have something afflicting them.

Cultist - This is for models that seem to be cult-related. Usually they are humanoid.

Demonic - This is for hellish models.

Plant - This is for models made up of plant life.

Holy - This represents angels or other holy entities.

Alien - This is for things that look like otherworldly entities.

Eldritch - This is for otherworldly entities that are very lovecraftian or especially bizarre in nature.

Beastial - This is for models that seem quite animalistic.

Insectoid - This is for models that represent bugs.

Inorganic - This represents models that have been created by man, or are otherwise inorganic.

Nordic - This is for viking or other norse-inspired models.

Carnival - This is for carnival or whimsy-inspired models that are still somewhat based on real aesthetics.

Tribal - This is for models that represent models that look to come from nomadic groups or tribes, like Amazonians or witch doctors.

Unknown - This is for things that I don't know how to classify, or that are completely unfamiliar to the world and other fantasy.

Maybe? - This is for models that I don't know will fit that well into the game.

(Paid) - This is for models that require some form of payment to access.

<https://cults3d.com/en/3d-model/art/geega> - Maybe terrain, maybe a mini, just a lil alien thing with big teeth
<https://cults3d.com/en/3d-model/game/moldorm> - Could also be terrain, but could be a mini, like a worm with a bunch of teeth
<https://cults3d.com/en/3d-model/game/poe> - Could be a ghost mini, but the arm is not super usable
<https://cults3d.com/en/3d-model/game/phantoan> - Since it has two arms, but also a big head, it could be used for basically any small model as an Alien proxy
<https://cults3d.com/en/3d-model/game/digdogger> - Big eldritch/alien eye dude has no arms, so doesn't seem very usable, but maybe you can find a use for him

<https://www.thingiverse.com/thing:4830353> - Same as above, except with items other than just rifles

Death Corps of Krieg fit pretty well for the theme of the game and have a lot of minis that match with some others. I have some listed here, but I'm just going to post this link since there are so many and a lot of them look very similar, but all fit pretty well, and I don't want to bloat this too hard just yet. Search through here if that interests you:
