

Announcer 1:

Today is Bi Visibility day, a day to learn about the history of the Bi+ community, celebrate its vibrancy and diversity, and uplift the voices of all those who identify with any label under the Bisexual+ umbrella.

Announcer 2:

Bi Visibility day as we know it was first officially observed in 1999 at the International Lesbian and Gay Association Conference in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Announcer 1:

The Bisexual+ umbrella, also known as the multisexual umbrella, encompasses the vast array of identities that describe those who are attracted to two or more genders, including Bisexuality, Omnisexuality, Pansexuality, Polysexuality, and many more.

Announcer 2:

Today is a day to not only look at the challenges Bi+ people face, but to celebrate the rich and diverse communities that have grown around the labels that fall under the Bi+ umbrella.

Announcer 1:

Happy Bi Visibility Day Lancers!