ABSTRACT

An abstract is written in 100-200 words with a single space. Abstract content must explain the subject matter discussed in the article, the method used, the results or findings, and the conclusions. Abstracts are written in only one paragraph.

Introduction

Describe the background of your article in a concise and detailed way by using data and/or literature review to show the novelty. This section describes the problematic reality that is studied based on a scientific perspective. The introduction concludes by describing the purpose of writing the article.

Methods

Explain your methodologies in this chapter. You should explain your research instruments, data collection processes, data analysis processes or hypothesis testing processes, and data display processes.

Results and Discussion

Describe your research findings according to the research problem and purpose of the study. Discuss your findings according to the perspective of theory, concept, or previous findings. Should describe this section in a comprehensive, simple, and detailed manner. The author can make subchapters in this section.

Conclusion

Write a conclusion based on your interpretation of the findings and discussion. The conclusion presents critical points that explain the answers to research questions. In this section, the author can provide input and recommendations. Suggestions present advanced ideas to be developed in subsequent research or practical improvement.

References

Write the references you cited in the article by using the American Psychological Association (APA) 6th Edition style. Reference writing must use a reference application engine such as Mendeley, EndNote, and Zotero.
