Many lovers of the Loucks Games believe the 2009 edition was among the top meets in history. Suffern's women powered the school to the Combined title, led by two athletes who shared the Outstanding Female Athlete Award. Jennifer Clayton set a meet record in Long Jump (20' 2.5"), while teammate Shelby Greany set a meet record in the 1600m (4:48.25). Great Neck South's Terrance Livingston was named the Outstanding Male Athlete by virtue of his two wins, the 800m (1:52.50) and the 400m (47.70). Jesse Drinks (Ossining) won the 100m (10.98) and the 200m (21.62). Tyler Stutzman (Western Albemarle) won the 1600m in 4:09.86. Nate Quinn (New Canaan) set a meet record in the Javelin (188' 8"), while Commack's Mike Levine set a new record in the Discus (185' 2"). Nanuet's Michael Carroll set a record in the Pentathlon (3181). Benjamin Cardozo won the two sprint relays (47.35/3:46.28). Bronxville's time in the 4x800 (9:09.44) was the third fastest in meet history. But the two main highlights happened at opposite ends of the meet. Liverpool, late on Saturday afternoon, set the meet record in the 4x800 (7:46.50 – average 1:56.6), while on Thursday, in one of the great relay races in meet history, concluding with two of the great anchor legs, Westerly (RI) and Western Albemarle (VA) put on a show in the DMR. Stutzman's excellent 4:07 anchor could not hold off Westerly. In fact, the splits on Westerly's DMR were O'Loughlin 3:07.1 – Phelps 50.9 – Digangi 1:59.5 and Andrew Springer 4:03.5, for a total of 10:01.13, while Western Albemarle totaled a #2 all-time Loucks 10:01.87!
