Toolkit of suggestions and options

- Invite your MLA, sincerely. Let them know you will be there, and who is coming with you. Elected officials might avoid a protest but they will likely respond to you about this, at the very least. The legislature is not sitting this week so they are more likely to be in their home ridings. Google MLA name + constituency office, for email and phone number. Template email below.
- Organise your people to show up with you. That friend who is worried about climate change. Your mom. Your neighbour.
- Reach out further. What about organisations that you belong to? What about small businesses that care about community? Sports teams? Faith groups near you? Other elected officials, like city council members or your MP? They would probably like to be invited.
- Prep your candle. Or use an LED light. LED lights in jars can be handy if it rains. It's ok to use a flashlight or headlight or bike light, too.
- Print a copy of the 10 actions to bring along and give to your MLA. These are the actions that 353+ groups and businesses are asking for, to help prevent future climate chaos. See the nicely formatted PDF at <https://climateactions.ca/signatories/>.

- Get creative. How can you honour those that we have lost? How can you show who and what you are still fighting for? Signs? Art? Song? Maybe initiating a simple round of sharing would be powerful: Where were people during the heat dome, or the floods? What do people remember?
- Consider celebrities. Even very local celebrities. Is there a speaker, a singer, or an artist you would like to invite?
- Consider territory. Whose Indigenous territory are you on? Is there a way to recognize that? Are there Indigenous community members you would like to invite?
- Share out. Take photos or videos and share (with permission if it's a close up of anyone) with the hashtag #candles4climate.
- Enjoy yourself! The vision for these events is about community, memory, honouring grief, and standing together. Each one will look different. It can be powerful in simplicity. Maybe it's perfect if you just show up and stand beside someone who came on their own.

Introduction

- Your name, organization, territory

Recognize who and what we have lost this year

- 595 people in the summer heat dome, mostly seniors
- Town of Lytton
- 17,000 people evacuated in the floods
- Several people in mudslides
- Unknown numbers of livestock
- Homes, farms, land that may be permanently lost

Take a moment of silence

- recognizing the people, animals, plants, and places that we have lost

Why MLA offices

- Yes, individuals and groups have roles to play
- Provincial government, however, has the resources of legislation and money to make a huge difference in preventing more deaths to climate chaos
- Their current climate plans do not treat this situation like the emergency it is
- The current plans champion the expansion of fossil fuel infrastructure in the form of fracked gas pipelines and export terminals
- That's why more and more groups and businesses are signing on to the open letter to tell Premier Horgan to confront the climate emergency with 10 actions based on science and justice
- BC Teachers Federation, Canadian Association of Physicians for the Environment, Union of BC Indians Chiefs...
- 353 groups and businesses, and more continue to join
- Full list of signatories is available at <https://climateactions.ca/signatories/>

How you can all help

- Individuals can sign the petition at <https://climateactions.ca/>
- If you own a business, or are part of a community group, faith group, or labour union, ask them to sign. <https://climateactions.ca/take-action/>
- Tell your climate change story so we can amplify it on social media. <https://climateactions.ca/take-action/>
- Help us recruit more signatories! See who has already signed, and ask other businesses and organizations to sign up. <https://climateactions.ca/signatories/>
