akshathekitty: My night is ruined

I'm not really responding to all this today (for, I think, obvious reasons) but I'd like to say that I didn't feel betrayed by complete strangers or casual fandom acquaintances / readers not rushing in. It was... something a bit more personal than that. People that definitely were there, were considered friends by me, and could've said it wasn't okay but didn't.

It just means that today I'm harder hearted than I was yesterday, that's all.

I especially like how you've left out a transcript of what went down. Seems to me that you would want to include that for all of those who weren't there, or don't visit H&V's shoutbox, to see just how you were bullied and lectured.

Here, allow me. It's in reverse order, so start at the bottom and read your way up, ladies and gentlemen, and then see who exactly was in the wrong that night.
