Recent Wins for Our Clients at Gabriel Law

Our clients have secured major settlements and verdicts in recent years. This means they got results that gave them the support they needed to rebuild their lives.

Here are a few of the successful outcomes we have secured for people who trusted Gabriel Law with their case:

- $2,150,000 Settlement: A 40-year-old man sustained multiple injuries, including damage to his knees, shoulders, and back, in a serious car accident. Gabriel Law negotiated a settlement that was well above the initial offer made by the insurance company.
- $1,175,000 Settlement: A 33-year-old woman suffered tibia and fibula fractures in a car crash. Thanks to our team's expertise, we secured a $1.175 million settlement to cover her medical treatment, lost wages, and ongoing recovery needs.
- $800,000 Settlement: A 33-year-old man was involved in a collision with a tractor-trailer while stopped in traffic. The accident resulted in severe back injuries that required cervical fusion surgery. Gabriel Law secured an $800,000 settlement to ensure his long-term recovery.
- $1,450,000 Settlement: A 52-year-old man sustained severe back injuries in a rear-end collision, requiring lumbar fusion surgery. Gabriel Law's thorough representation helped him recover a significant settlement to cover medical bills and lost income.

These are just a few examples of how we have helped clients in Manhattan and beyond recover after serious accidents. Let Gabriel Law fight for you, so you don't have to fight for the compensation you deserve alone.

What Our Clients Are Saying

At Gabriel Law, we take pride in providing exceptional legal representation to car accident victims in Manhattan. Here's what some of our clients have to say about their experiences with us:

"After my car accident, I was feeling lost and overwhelmed by the legal process. But my Manhattan car crash lawyer from Gabriel Law took the time to explain everything to me clearly. He handled all the paperwork and was always available to answer my questions. Thanks to him, I received a fair settlement that helped cover my medical bills and lost wages. I highly recommend Gabriel Law!"

— James D., Manhattan

"I was in a serious accident on the Upper West Side, and Gabriel Law helped me every step of the way. The team's professionalism and dedication to my case really stood out. My lawyer went above and beyond, making sure I understood every step of the process and got the compensation I deserved. It was truly a relief to have such a knowledgeable team on my side."

— Sarah M., Upper West Side, Manhattan

"Gabriel Law came highly recommended by a friend, and now I know why. I was rear-ended by a taxi in Midtown, and I had no idea what to do next. Gabriel Law stepped in and immediately took charge of everything. They kept me informed and fought hard. I got the compensation I needed for my injuries and time off work. Their team was professional and caring. I was never left in the dark. I couldn't be more satisfied with the outcome of my case."

— David R., Midtown Manhattan

Steps to Take After a Car Accident in Manhattan

Find your calm: As difficult as it is to stay calm right after a car accident in Manhattan, that's exactly what you need to do first. It's human to feel disoriented, but try to focus on what's important. Do a quick check and see if you or anyone else is injured.

Call 911: Whether your car accident is severe or not, you have to call 911. So if you are not critically injured, contact the police right away. This is when a police report is filed. An official report helps to build a strong case when your car accident lawyer negotiates with the insurance firm.

Exchange information and collect witness statements: Here's what you can do to gather information that will help you to maximize compensation. Talk with the other driver/s involved and exchange names, contact numbers, insurance details, and license plate numbers. If other witnesses are present, collect their contact information as well.

Don't admit fault: Right after your car accident, it might feel tempting to apologize. But even a simple statement can complicate matters. Try to put your emotions aside and stick with factual observations only. Whatever you do, don't admit fault even with witnesses who are supporting you. Get legal advice first.

Seek medical attention: If you didn't have to rush to the hospital immediately, you have been lucky. But some internal injuries like whiplash are not immediately visible. What's more, if you don't get a medical record during the time of the accident, your insurance agent can argue that the injury was not a direct result of it. So take the time to go to a doctor even if you feel like all's good.

Consult a Manhattan car crash lawyer: The sooner you call a lawyer, the better. A legal expert will give you guidance on what needs to be done in terms of insurance claims, negotiating settlements, and representing you in court. There's no need to pay unless your case is won. So there's no loss in contacting a car accident lawyer as soon as possible.

File an insurance claim: If you have already contacted a Manhattan law firm, a lawyer will take care of this for you. What needs to be done is that the accident should be reported to your insurance agent first. They'll request documents such as a police report, medical records, and any other evidence of damages.

Is the Statute of Limitations in New York Important for a Manhattan Car Accident?

The Statute of Limitations is extremely important in Manhattan just as it is in all of New York. It states how long you have from the date of the accident to build a case. New York has criminal and civil statutes of limitations. The civil statutes of limitation apply for car accidents.

The reason that statutes of limitations exist is to make sure fair trials happen on time. Missing strict deadlines usually results in permanent loss of your right to sue even if you have the strongest possibility to win.

These time limits vary depending on the case type. If your car accident caused a personal injury, then you have 3 years from the date of the incident to build a case.

However, if your accident involves city or government vehicles, then you have 90 days to file a Notice of Claim, and a lawsuit must be filed within one year and 90 days from the crash date.

Exceptions also occur if your car accident case includes any of these factors:

- Wrongful death: The deadline for a car accident resulting in a fatality is 2 years from the date of death.

- Minors: A minor has 3 years from their 18th birthday to file a claim.
- Defendant's absence: If the at-fault driver leaves New York, the time they are gone can be paused from the statute of limitations countdown.
- Discovery rule: If latent injuries appear, then the deadline to file begins at the point when the injury is discovered.

How the statute of limitations applies for your car accident case in Manhattan will vary based on the circumstances. You need to make sure that you don't miss a deadline and lose your case.

An experienced Manhattan car crash lawyer will keep you informed and handle all these details so you can focus on rebuilding your life. Get in touch with our lawyers at Gabriel Law on \(212\) 497-2421 and get started right away. We'll schedule a free consultation and explain what the state of your case is.

What Type of Car Insurance Do You Need in Manhattan?

If you are a vehicle owner in New York, then you need to have a minimum level of car insurance coverage on any vehicle registered and operated in the state:

- $25,000 for injuries to one person and $50,000 total liability for two or more people injured
- $50,000 liability coverage for a person's death (when a covered driver causes an accident). $100,000 for multiple deaths.
- $10,000 liability coverage for property damage (if other people's vehicle or property get damaged)
- $25,000 in uninsured motorist coverage for injuries to one person, $50,000 for multiple people

Liability insurance covers damages you cause to others (injuries and property damage) but does not cover your own losses.

What helps you as the insured person is no-fault coverage. No-fault insurance helps with:

- Medical bills: Covers the cost of your medical treatment, up to a specified amount.
- Lost income: Replaces up to 80% of lost wages (up to $2,000 per month) if you are unable to work because of the accident.
- Household help: Pays for help around the house if your injuries prevent you from doing tasks like cooking or cleaning.

- Death benefits: Provides up to $2,000 in death benefits to your family if the accident results in your death.

If you don't maintain the minimum required car insurance coverage, you could face severe consequences such as:

- Legal fines
- Penalties
- Suspension of driving privileges

In a city like Manhattan, where 11,904 motor vehicle accidents occurred in 2024 as per the data provided by NYC Open Data, making sure that your car insurance coverage is up to date and meets all legal requirements is critical.

Types of Compensation You Can Pursue After a Manhattan Car Accident

If you have been injured in a car accident in Manhattan, you are entitled to a lot more than physical recovery. Injuries caused by car accidents create more than one disruption in your life, and with the right car accident lawyer by your side, you can make sure that the full impact of your accident is covered.

A qualified Manhattan car crash lawyer will help you pursue compensation for the following categories:

1. Medical expenses: This includes emergency care, ongoing treatment, surgeries, rehabilitation, and therapy costs needed for recovery.
2. Lost wages and earning capacity: If your injuries prevent you from working, you don't have to stay silent about it. You may be entitled to compensation for lost income. This includes any long-term impact on your ability to earn a living in the future.
3. Pain and suffering: This refers to the physical pain, emotional distress, and reduced quality of life caused by injuries. Pain and suffering are more subjective and challenging to prove unless an experienced lawyer is working on your case.
4. Property damage: Compensation can cover the cost of repairing or replacing your vehicle as well as any personal items damaged in the accident.
5. Loss of consortium: You can seek compensation if your ability to maintain a normal relationship, both emotionally and physically, has been affected by the accident. Your spouse or partner may be entitled to compensation as well if your injury has impacted their emotional well-being.

6. Emotional distress: If the accident caused anxiety, depression, or post-traumatic stress disorder, you can seek compensation for emotional trauma.

Manhattan Auto Accident Statistics

Around 6 million car accidents take place in the United States annually, and a majority of them take place in New York. Although Manhattan is not reported to be one of the deadliest roads in New York among the five boroughs, it still reports more fatal traffic accidents than Staten Island or the Bronx.

Between 2017 and 2021, 587 people lost their lives in car accidents across NYC, with 21% of those fatalities occurring in Manhattan. According to NYC Open Data, in 2024 alone, Manhattan experienced 11,902 car crashes, resulting in approximately 4,875 injury-related accidents and 28 fatalities.

If you or a loved one has been injured in a car accident in Manhattan, you may be eligible for compensation. A skilled Manhattan car crash lawyer can help with potential claims against the city for unsafe road conditions.

Traffic Calming Measures to Reduce Car Accidents

Traffic calming measures in Manhattan, New York City, involve a range of design interventions aimed at reducing vehicle speeds, discouraging aggressive driving, and enhancing pedestrian safety and comfort.

The NYC Department of Transportation (DOT) uses various traffic calming devices, including:

- Raised speed reducers, curb extensions (neckdowns), and raised crosswalks to slow down vehicles and shorten pedestrian crossing distances.
- Lane narrowing and lane removal ("road diets") to reduce wide lanes that encourage speeding and to reassign space for bike lanes, pedestrian areas, or parking.
- Traffic diverters, median barriers, and gateways that visually and physically narrow streets, discourage through traffic, and signal entrance to lower-speed zones.
- Traffic calming programs to reduce left and right turn speeds and improve safety at intersections.

- Other streetscape elements such as pedestrian malls, community seating, and public art are sometimes included to visually narrow streets and slow traffic.

Manhattan also employs pedestrian-friendly redesigns like eliminating certain turns (for example, in areas like Madison Square), creating pedestrian plazas, and installing mini roundabouts and leading pedestrian intervals to increase safety and smooth traffic flows.

These measures are part of NYC DOT's Vision Zero initiative to eliminate traffic fatalities and promote safer streets for all users, especially around schools and senior neighborhoods.

The Painstaking Reality Behind Car Crashes in Manhattan

Car accidents in Manhattan happen far more frequently than they should, and what's tragic is that they trace back to simple human mistakes and carelessness more often than not.

Sometimes people are rushing, stressed, distracted, or just not paying attention. Unfortunately, those split-second decisions can lead to painful consequences that affect you and everyone who depends on you.

Understanding why these crashes happen can help reduce them, and it also helps strengthen your personal injury claim if you have already been hurt.

Here are the 5 leading causes of Manhattan car accidents:

1. Distracted Driving

It's no secret that distracted driving is a major issue in New York City. Drivers frequently get caught up in their phones, GPS, or even talking to passengers. While texting and driving is illegal, there are less obvious distractions that take drivers' attention off the road such as eating breakfast on the go or adjusting the radio. These distractions are more than just minor annoyances; they can lead to serious accidents, especially when traffic is heavy or when you are at tricky intersections.

2. Drunk Driving

Driving under the influence of alcohol is a huge problem in Manhattan, and it's responsible for a lot of serious accidents. Alcohol slows reaction times and impairs judgment. While New York's legal limit is a BAC of 0.08%, even a little bit of alcohol can make it dangerous to drive. A drunk driving crash can change lives in an instant, and the consequences can last much longer than you might expect.

3. Reckless Driving

Manhattan's streets can feel like a racecourse, with drivers often speeding, cutting people off, or running red lights to get ahead. But when drivers ignore the rules of the road or fail to yield, the chances of a crash go up dramatically. Even something as simple as tailgating or not giving someone the right of way can lead to a wreck. It's all too common in a city where everyone seems to be in a hurry.

4. Faulty Car Parts

Sometimes, accidents happen for reasons beyond the driver's control. Defective car parts like faulty brakes, tires, or steering can cause a driver to lose control. Though these incidents are less common, when they do happen, they can be devastating. If a defect in your car caused a car accident, it's important to know that you could be entitled to compensation.

5. Dangerous Road Conditions

Manhattan's streets aren't always in the best shape, either. Potholes, uneven road surfaces, or unexpected construction zones can lead to accidents, especially when drivers can't react fast enough. Poorly maintained traffic lights or road signs can also add to the confusion. If a dangerous road condition is to blame for an accident, the city or other responsible parties might be held accountable for not keeping the roads safe.

High-Risk Intersections in Manhattan

Some areas consistently see more accidents due to congestion, pedestrian traffic, and complicated turn patterns. These hotspots in Manhattan are:

- Broadway and 42nd Street
- 8th Avenue and West 14th Street
- Park Avenue and East 60th Street
- 3rd Avenue and East 23rd Street
- Lexington Avenue and 59th Street
- West Street and Battery Park City

If you drive through these areas regularly, it's always a good idea to slow down and stay extra alert.

Got Injured in a Car Accident? Get in Touch with a Manhattan Car Crash Lawyer

Being hurt in a car accident is difficult enough. But what makes things worse is not getting compensated for the harm you have suffered. Many people assume they are at fault or that they don't have a case, and they walk away from compensation that could have helped them get back on their feet.

Even if you were partially at fault, you can still recover damages. Your compensation is simply reduced by your percentage of fault. For example, if you are found 20% at fault for a $200,000 accident, your payout will be reduced by $40,000, and you'd still receive $160,000.

So don't be too hard on yourself, especially when you are already going through a challenging time of stress and uncertainty. A trusted Manhattan car crash lawyer can look at the facts and guide you toward the best possible outcome.

At Gabriel Law, we negotiate directly with insurance companies and take cases to court when needed. And because we work on a "no pay unless we win" basis, there is zero financial risk in getting legal help.

No pressure. No obligations. We'll explain your options clearly and give you the guidance your car accident case needs. You decide your next step.
