Why Personalized Content?

Viewers like you have helped The Strategy Professor evolve from a relatively obscure channel with just a handful of devoted subscribers into one of the premier destinations for Warhammer and League support content on Youtube. Thank you so much!

Over the years many subscribers have suggested ideas that would help personalize and enhance their experiences on the channel. Some of these ideas include coaching, guides, champion requests, viewer games, and a private Discord.

I would love to incorporate all of these ideas into the channel for free, but I already devote about 8 hours per day to developing free content; and there is no fair way to offer all of these features for free to all 30,000+ subscribers. Thus, I started offering coaching, guides, champion requests, and legendary campaigns for modest prices to add options for personalized content to help support the channel.

To be clear, all standard content on The Strategy Professor will remain 100% free. This includes streams, campaigns, guides, coaching VODs, and everything else currently on the channel. The membership and support options exist to enable fans to commission personalized content to support the channel.
