

"Sunday Dinner" by Lucille Clifton

One wants
in a fantastic time
the certainty of
chicken popping in grease
the truth of potatoes
steaming the panes and
butter
gold and predictable as heroes in history
melting over all.