Yellow area: At the map the yellow area shows which area the flock grazed. They tried several times in the spring to cross the road and also to the west but I learnt them that when I clapped my hands they had to stop and turn around.

Light blue area: fenced areas. The largest is the forest pasture where the rams were kept. The smaller fences areas I used if I wanted to keep the ewes inside for some reason. Outside the light blue areas there were no fences.

Red: Sheep summer shed.

Blue dots: The blue signs area areas where I had to collect to manure, the closer to the stable to more regularly, the further away more seldom.
