Q.2 Read the story - "The Power of Small Acts" and answer the question. (05)

One chilly autumn morning, a young woman named Payal was running late for her first day at a new job. As she rushed toward the subway station, she noticed an elderly man struggling to lift a heavy bag of groceries. She hesitated for a moment as she was already late but something in her heart told her to stop.

"Can I help you with that?" she asked gently.

The man smiled with relief and thanked her. It took less than five minutes to help him carry the bag to his doorstep, but in that short time, Payal found herself breathing more calmly. She eventually reached her workplace, slightly late, but surprisingly composed.

Later that week, her boss mentioned that someone had seen her help the man and had called the company to praise her character. "We value kindness as much as punctuality," he said with a smile. Payal learned something important that day: even when time is short, there is always room for compassion.

Question:

Describe Payal's character based on her actions and choices.

Q.3 Read the story - "A Rainy Day Surprise" and answer the question. (05)

Shruti woke up and looked out the window. It was raining and the sky was gray. She felt disappointed because she had planned to go to the park with her friends. Instead, she stayed inside and helped her mother bake cookies. They mixed flour, sugar, and chocolate chips, laughing when some flour fell on the floor.

While the cookies were baking, Shruti and her mom played a board game. By the end of the day, the house smelled sweet and Shruti had forgotten all about the rain.

“This was the best rainy day ever,” she said, smiling.

Question:

How does Shruti feel at the beginning of the story and how does she feel at the end?

What causes this change?
