

1. Craft & crochet. "Easy Crochet Blanket Pattern/Crochet Baby Blanket ." Youtube , 7 July 2020, www.youtube.com/watch?v=l7Fidgz-pdo&t=1364s

This source is a video tutorial from youtube that I used to make a blanket for my little brother. I wanted to use a source with video and a detailed explanation to show how youtube can be used for educational purposes instead of just entertainment. The creator gives a very detailed view of how to do the pattern and it is a very good source in my opinion. The only criticism I have is how fast she goes as it might be hard for some people to keep up however, youtube has a playback feature that can be useful for that type of problem.

2. Iman.bawab. Tik Tok , 29 June 2020, crochet bee

I wanted to give another video source besides YouTube to critic. I used this source to crochet a stuffed bee for my room. I feel like tik tok is a little harder to follow when it comes to tutorials. You have to already have an idea of what you're doing before using this type of tutorial and the problem is that you can't scrub the video to rewind or fast forward at all so if you miss a part, you have to watch the full video and wait for it to repeat itself which is frustrating.

3. Cagle, Krista. "Crochet Patterns for Among Us Game." EasyCrochet.com, 9 Dec. 2020, easycrochet.com/among-us-crochet-patterns

I used this source to crochet an among us character. This one is my favorite source because it gives you different stitch patterns to do based on what you want and also has two video tutorials instead of one giving you many different options on how you want to make this and what will work for you. I like how the page was organized and I feel like this was a little more advanced however, they do have sources to easier works if you are a beginner and the way they presented the facts was very understandable and accessible.

4. Jordan, Giavonna M. "Interview with My Sister ." 29 Jan. 2021.

I wanted to interview my sister because she is more of a beginner than me so she sees all of this through a different lens. I wanted to get her view on these sources instead of trying to guess myself. I can see how someone who is just starting to crochet would react to internet sources. Some things I take for granted, a lot of people don't actually know. I wanted to get as much information as possible so I made sure to interview her to get it.

5. Trifonova, Viktoriya. "How Coronavirus Has Changed The Way We Use Social Media." GWI, 13 Aug. 2020, blog.globalwebindex.com/chart-of-the-week/social-media-amid-the-outbreak

I wanted to include this source because it shows how social media has changed. It also shows how social media is being used more and more considering we're in lockdown. People are using social media as a way to pass the time, get information, and interact with other people. I wanted to use this as proof of how social media can be used as a way to further your hobby or even learn a new one.

6. Swedeen, Hope. "9 Benefits of Learning With Video Tutorials." Home, 2016, 4ts.org/blog/9-benefits-of-learning-with-video-tutorials

This source shows how people can benefit from video tutorials. I wanted to look into if people really can learn from video tutorials by looking at sources that prove as well as disprove if people find it easy or hard to learn online. This source gives a lot of really good information however, my only criticism is that it's a biased source. It only gives information on the pros and none of the cons.

7. Solovay, Amy. "How to Crochet for Beginners." The Spruce Crafts, 28 Apr. 2020, www.thesprucecrafts.com/how-to-crochet-for-beginners-979092.

I really liked this source because it gives some basic information that many tutorials don't think to include. It gives many sources in one place making it accessible to many and easy to find a place to start when trying to learn. It also gives some steps on how to expand your knowledge after you grasp the basics which I thought as really cool. I like the amount of detail included in the information without it being boring.

8. Jordan, Giavonna M. "interview with my grandmother" 29 Jan. 2021

My grandmother was the one who taught me how to crochet when I was a child so I wanted to interview her since she would have information that I haven't learned yet. I could also get her opinion on if she thought my sources were good to learn from and whether or not she would use them to further her skills in the future. I also could come to her for in person help if I ever needed it which I could've found extremely helpful.

9. "Strengths and Weaknesses of Online Learning - ION Professional ELearning Programs." UIS, www.uis.edu/ion/resources/tutorials/online-education-overview/strengths-and-weaknesses/

This source is one that I found better than source number 6 because it gives both views of how online learning can work for people. It feels unbiased which I appreciated because it helped me expand my view of online learning from both sides of the argument which I liked in this source. This source gave insight about how online tutorials could be better too which I thought was really helpful. It gave me a lens to look through when researching tutorial videos to look at.
