FRESH OFF THE TOTO-TOWN CRIER PRESS

In a move so disgraceful it ought to be framed next to Chamberlain's umbrella, the United Kingdom has just placed a knife squarely in the back of Israel.

Britain's new Prime Minister, Sir Keir Starmer, stood at the podium and effectively told Israel:

Lay down your arms—or we'll side with your enemies.

Let that sink in.

Instead of confronting Hamas, the modern-day Amalekites of Gaza, Starmer turned the tables and aimed his diplomacy not at terrorists, but at the victims of terrorism. In what can only be described as a diplomatic mugging, he issued a chilling ultimatum:

◆◆ Israel must...

Agree to a ceasefire

Let the United Nations (yes, that United Nations) control humanitarian aid

Guarantee no annexation of the West Bank

Pledge blind allegiance to a “long-term peace” built on the crumbling lie of a two-state solution

And in return?

Hamas gets legitimacy.

Hamas gets a seat at the table.

Hamas gets what it wanted all along—recognition.

All while Israeli mothers still wait by the door, hoping their daughters will be released from underground hellholes in Gaza.

◆◆ THE BANALITY OF EVIL — WITH A BRITISH ACCENT

Starmer doesn't need to wear jackboots or wave a Nazi banner to qualify as an accessory to barbarism. His weapon of choice is more refined: a well-tailored suit, a lawyer's cadence, and the foggy pretense of human rights.

As columnist Melanie Phillips blistered in response:

"Today's accomplices to barbarism aren't dressed in jackboots or the braid of a junta generalissimo. They wear the suit and earnest spectacles of a human rights lawyer. This is the banality of evil—and it is frying the Western brain."

By demonizing Israel and demanding their capitulation, Starmer is stoking a fire already blazing through Britain's streets: Jew-hatred. Masked now as activism. Fueled by social media and political cowardice.

❖❖ THE REAL REASON: DOMESTIC POLITICS OVER DIVINE PRINCIPLE

Let's get to the raw truth. Starmer isn't doing this because he hates Israel.

He's doing it because he fears losing Muslim votes.

That's it. Political preservation > Moral clarity.
When political calculus becomes more important than spiritual conviction, betrayal is inevitable. And this betrayal is colossal.

"Starmer rewards Hamas's monstrous terrorism and punishes its victims," said Prime Minister Netanyahu. "A jihadist state on Israel's border today will threaten Britain tomorrow. Appeasement toward jihadist terrorists always fails."

You'd think Britain would've learned that lesson from Munich. Or Tehran. Or Kabul. But alas, the British lion is asleep at the wheel—again.

PROPHETIC IRONY: FROM BROTHER TO BACKSTABBER

Here's the part that chills the discerning mind...

It was Britain—modern Ephraim, the birthright brother of Judah—who just a few generations ago handed the keys of the Promised Land to their brother.

It was under the British Mandate that the modern State of Israel emerged. It was Ephraim who stood beside Judah and said, "Here—you go home now."

And now?

That same brother has turned, not just away—but against.

The brother who once opened the door now threatens to slam it shut, unless Judah bows to his political demands.

What began in brotherhood... has ended in betrayal.

What started in covenant... has ended in compromise.

FINAL WARNING FROM TOTO-TOWN:

To the citizens of the UK who still fear Yahweh: Repent. Rise. Resist.

To the leaders of Israel: Do not yield. The God of Abraham is still your defender.

And to Hamas and every terrorist dressed as a politician: Your days are numbered.

Israel will not be saved by the West. She will be saved by Yahweh.

Truth is rising—and so is the Remnant.

Stay tuned. Stay bold. Stay in covenant.
