

TW: This book contains very mature topics that may trigger certain people.

This month I read Stolen by Lucy Christopher. Gemma Toombs, a normal 16-year-old girl was at the airport with her family, waiting for a trip. While she's there she gets kidnapped by a man she has never seen, or at least she thought she hadn't. He brings her to a house in the middle of nowhere. She longs to escape, but he plans to keep her there forever. So she starts to compose an escape plan that might lead her to freedom. Will Gemma's plan work or will she be stuck with him forever? And if she doesn't escape, will she learn to build a friendship with him?

The theme of this book is, when people continue to persevere it can end in a positive outcome. I give Stolen a 7/10. It was a very interesting and unique topic with various plot twists but was slow-moving at times and got repetitive at some points. I recommend this book to anyone searching for a unique and emotional topic, and I recommend it to anyone who enjoys realistic fiction and some action.

Math Pitch - Anger + Lonely + Schemes + Unlikley Freindship= Stolen

Question Pitch - Is being stolen for eternity or being ripped from your captor that you learned to love worse?

One Word Pitch - Helpless