

Chapter 1 -

Once there was fire that scorched the crow who ate sushi to survive, but disliked chocolate so it cried forever and also sneezed the biggest sneeze ever. Then suddenly an iguana started cooking and it wasn't expected so it started doing random activities amongst butterflies who are terrifying due to their willingness and interest in mushrooms, despite warnings that death was caused, so he jumped around like nobody saw him from frost and fire rose but apparently the rats' takeover, those darn velociraptors Jurassic Park isn't real but those cats who scare with their flowers and cake are quite yummy but never dared to smell lice before eating zupa to become the aquatic seaweed with the blue hat looked near maggot river swarmed with maggots that could destroy onions by simply existing past noon and eating away at cheerios with no one around. The monster became oreos and then KABOOM! Everything car on this moon flew into void then the prey was.
