

Chapter 1, Part 0 – Reflections of Days Gone By

"It was all my fault."

"My decisions, and everything they led to...
and the consequences that followed — there's nothing I can ever do to change any of it."

That's why I chose to walk a new path —
a path where I would never again let anyone
make the same mistakes
as I once did in the past...
(as I once failed to save someone back then...)

I quietly sat down on the same chair, in my office at the Chale building, gazing down at the daily reports before slowly closing my eyes...

"...letting myself gradually melt into the soft rain flowing down the windowpane..."

"...letting all those memories slowly rise from the depths of my mind..."

This is my story —
the story of someone who once stumbled, once lost their way,
and in the end...
chose to become a teacher
for the children of Kivotos..!
