Author Contributions

CRedit (Contributor Roles Taxonomy) Authorship Contribution statement is introduced to recognize individual author contributions, reduce authorship disputes, and facilitate collaboration. CRediT allows author to share an accurate and detailed description of their diverse contribution to the published work. The corresponding author is responsible for ensuring that the descriptions are accurate and agreeable by all authors. The role(s) of all authors should be listed using the relevant above categories. Authors may have contributed in multiple roles. Credit in no way changes the journal's criteria to quality for authorship. CRediT statement should be provided during the submission process.

Possible CRediT statements:

Conceptualization, data curation, formal analysis, funding acquisition, investigation, methodology, project administration, resources, software, supervision, validation, visualization, writing-original draft, writing-review & editing.

Sample CRediT author statement:

First Author: Conceptualization, methodology, writing-original draft, software, validation. Second Author: Data curation, resources, draft preparation. Third Author: Formal analysis, validation, Fourth Author: Software, visualization. Fifth Author: Validation, writing-review & editing. All authors discussed the results and contributed to the final manuscript.

Funding Statement

The authors need to specify any sources of funding (institutional, private, and corporate financial support) who contributed to the article. This information, in the form of the name of the funding organization/s and the grant number or should be included at the end of the article under the heading 'Funding', and provided at the time of submitting the paper. If there was no funding, the following wording should be used: "This research received no specific grant from any funding agency in the public, commercial, or not-for-profit sectors."

Acknowledgment

If there are any, write the acknowledgment or appreciation in this section. Acknowledgments can be addressed to those individuals, institutions, and laboratories who provided help during the research (e.g., providing language help, writing assistance or proof reading the article, reviewers, etc.). It could be also to people who contributed to the article or data in the article (excluding the authors).

Declarations

A conflict of interest, also known as a competing interest, is a situation in which an interest or connection -direct or indirect-could influence your research.

Example:

Competing interest. The authors declare no competing interest.

Conflict of interest. The authors declare that he/she has no conflicts of interest to report study.

REFERENCES

All references cited in the article must be listed in this section. References should primarily be taken from primary sources such as scientific journals, with at least 80% of the total references coming from these sources. It is strongly recommended that the references be drawn from reputable international journals, published within the last 7 years. Each article should include a minimum of 20 references. Each article should have at least 35 references.

All the data or quotations in the article taken from other authors' works should be accompanied by reference sources. The references should be managed using a reference management application such as Mendeley, EndNote, or Zotero. The reference format should follow the APA (American Psychological Association) 7th Edition Style.
