

Does your use of technology impact on staff?

I had a look at some figures about staff retention since we started our one-to-one iPad programme, and what was really interesting is that the longer the programme went on, the longer teachers were staying in this school. And who knows whether there is a direct link. But I do know speaking to teachers that they love teaching with an iPad. They love having a class where every kid has got an iPad and they're able to do all kinds of exciting and interesting things, the way they can save time. They haven't got a print stuff off because they just send it to the kids' iPads with Showbie and all these things make it a much more enjoyable experience in the classroom in the moment of actually teaching children. And I think teachers are aware that not every school has this and that actually they're quite fortunate to be in a school which does this. And so sure, teachers have got to move on, things happen in life, but there's all kinds of really great reasons to stay as well.
