

Thank you again for participating in The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival: Contending with Misinformation in the Community and the Classroom. Below is some information to work into your episode for the carnival in your own words.

- The name of the podcast carnival is The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival 2021
 - The theme of The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival is “Contending with Misinformation in the Community and the Classroom”
 - The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival 2020 takes place August 16-19, 2021
 - This is the 2nd Annual Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival, and we hope to grow our list of participants and listenership going forward
 - We hope The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival continues to be an annual event
 - The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival 2021 hashtags: #tbrpodcastcarnival2021 and #contendingwithmisinformation
- The Big Rhetorical Podcast will feature our keynote interview for the podcast carnival. This episode will be released August 19.
- The keynote speaker for The Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival 2020 is Dr. Renee Hobbs, Professor of Communication Studies at the Harrington School of Communications and Media and Founder of the Media Education Lab at the University of Rhode Island.

You don't have to cover all information listed here, just choose what works for your episode or is you think is important for your listeners. Please let me know if you have any questions.

The 2021 Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival: Contending with Misinformation in the Community and in the Classroom concludes today with our Keynote Interview with Dr. Renee Hobbs. This week, podcasts and podcasters from around the world have come together around one central theme: misinformation. My hope--our hope--is that the knowledge created and shared throughout the carnival helps people understand the incredible impact misinformation, disinformation, fake news, and propaganda have on society.

I want to thank all of the podcasts and podcasters who participated in The 2021 Big Rhetorical Podcast Carnival: Contending with Misinformation in the Community and in the Classroom: Pedagogue, May It Displease the Court, Sleep In Cinema,