Arts NC, NCPC Partner

Arts North Carolina is an advocacy organization that advances public funding for the arts and arts education at the state and federal level while offering training, and resources for advocates to engage locally. The organization also provides updates on government programs and serves as a convener of the state's creative community. ARTS Day is held each spring in Raleigh to connect, inform, and inspire artists, arts workers, and arts lovers, and giving them the opportunity to speak directly to their NC General Assembly representatives about the value and power of the arts. Contact Information: nate@artsnc.org, artsnc.org

North Carolina Arts Council, NCPC Partner

The North Carolina Arts Council's mission is "arts for all." As a state agency, we serve the public by providing resources, shaping cultural policy, and sharing the story of how the arts enrich North Carolina. Impacting all 100 counties, we work collaboratively with arts organizations, artists, schools, and municipalities to ensure that a wide range of creative experiences are available to the people of North Carolina. These strategic investments in the arts sector boost civic engagement and economic activity, enhance learning and well-being, and uphold the state's rich and diverse cultural traditions. North Carolina is a better, more vibrant place because of the work we do. Contact Information: www.ncarts.org
