

Lionheart Dolphin

“I like drones! They are so fun to fly. I already designed a few drones at my job and I am always looking for ways to build better ones. Yesterday , I was visiting the aquarium with my brother and learned about the dolphin. Then, my aha moment came!”

From tomorrow, we both siblings started loving dolphins so much! After coming at home I researched about dolphins and drones. I got to know that dolphins are afraid of drones!

Kimberly Riskas said, “Drones affect species differently. For bottlenose dolphins, they’re a source of stress.”

If they got any kind of stress then what happens after that said briefly by Fettermann.

Fettermann says, “Even short term of stress responses can have serious implications for the dolphin population. Crucial behaviours as feeding, navigation maybe altered and reproductive success.”

Sea animals are natural beauties and always attracted by human’s. I made so many drones but now I want to make a drone which won’t hurt any sea animals. But the question is how will I able to do it? After researching so many times I got to know that if a drone flies 10 meters above the sea surface then it scares dolphins and other animals. All the animals change their ways after watching it. It was sure to me that I need to make a drone which can fly above 20 meters of any surface. All drones are same but why not make this one look more interesting? So my new drone’s gonna look like dolphin! How fascinating! Finally after 6 months of my hard work, finally I made this! With my brother I went to see a sea with our new drone. Then what we saw, we weren’t prepared for that. More than 10 people from different country, were killing sea fishes like starfish, blue whales and humpbacks etc. As we both had no other one we couldn’t do anything. After coming at home, I saw on news that suddenly sea creatures are getting disappeared. Then I told about those people who’s are responsible for this to police. Fortunately, the police agreed to help me. We all went to the sea beach the next day. Unfortunately we couldn’t find them. Police threatened me that if I lie to them again then they’re gonna take me to the custody. I was begging them to have faith on me but they didn’t response. From that day I went there everyday with my drone just to capture them in my drone. Luckily I found them after 2 months and captured them but they saw me. That time I was on boat and started riding fast. They somehow managed to catch me. My life was about to finish with their knife, instantaneously a dolphin jumped into their ship and I got a chance to save myself. When I reached at the beach I saw them killing that dolphin. I couldn’t do anything.

Today I am safe and those monster's are in police's custody. That dolphin just not saved my life but also saved all those creatures.
