

Hey, (prospect name)

I hear that other businesses use their websites to get customers really quick and easy with this simple technique.....

I believe what you're doing with your all natural highlight and salt spray product is really incredible. You get a lot of positive reviews and your products are always selling out. Also your website is very interesting. But I like to think there's always room for improvement!!!!!!

Anyways the thing these businesses do is they make whoever's on their website do a quick quiz/survey for a discount or maybe even a free gift. After they do this quiz/survey right before they get their results they ask for your contact info via email or phone contacting you whenever they have discounts or a new product dropping.

Nonetheless I believe I can help you with this technique and give you a new perspective on your business.

I'd like to work for you for free to help you improve your website and marketing tactics, until we see if there are any improvements and see if we're a good match.

Anyways if you're interested in improving your website, I'd like to host a zoom call with you or we can communicate by you replying via email.
