My Dear Son

Your letter written the 26th has just been read, it seemed it would never come. I had begun to get very uneasy about you. I expected a letter every day since I got your last one, written the day you arrived. You must not delay about writing to me for I can't go to sleep at night when I don't hear from you. I get so nervous and uneasy. Last night I lay awake nearly all night with a heavy heart thinking maybe you was sick – but this morning I sent to the [post] office and your letter came, so I feel as if a heavy load was lifted off me. Please write every day or every other day so I can hear often – you did not say whether you had received a letter from me or not. This is my third letter to you.

I will send you Mary's address. I would like for you to go and see her and Laura too if you have to stay a day longer. We are getting along all right, it is cool and we have had nice rains. Your lambs averaged 85 lbs. No news of interest. Louly and I are going to Warsaw to get some raspberries so will put them the office there. When do you think you will start for home?

Mr. Day's no is 2918 Washington Avenue

Mr. Turner has just sent for your Pa, is not so well, Mr. Johnson says.

My Son write to me as soon as you read this. Have you met any acquaintances? How often do you take your baths and how hot is the water?

Your Loving Mother

Warsaw at Florian's 2'oclock Friday

Louly and I drove Chief this morning up, got here at 11 o'clock found all well. Emer and I are going out to Johnny Paynes to get some raspberries. No news here. Willy says he saw you in Louisville. You must write to Florian. Goodbye

Write soon

Cousin Felicia sends love
