3. Melbourne Activist Legal Support (MALS) – (The pink vested legal witnesses – pro-TRA)

https://mals.au/2023/03/20/statement-of-concern-policing-of-opposing-anti-trans-rally-trans-rights-rallies/
Melbourne Activist Legal Support (MALS) show a bias pro TRA. For what it's worth they made observations of the TRA groups, the CARF, NUS and Trans Queer Solidarity Naarm Groups.

They ignored attacks on LWS speakers. They were there from 10.30 am to 3pm.

Based on the article provided, here's a succinct timeline of the movements of the Nazis, the CARF, and the NUS groups on 18 March 2023 in Melbourne, Victoria:

- 10:30 AM: Melbourne Activist Legal Support (MALS) deployed seven trained Legal Observers at Spring and Bourke Streets outside Parliament House to monitor and record the actions of Victoria Police.
- 11:00 AM: Two groups of trans rights protestors mobilized:
- A large group of 200-300 people, organized by the Campaign Against Racism & Fascism (CARF) and the National Union of Students Queer Department (NUS), gathered at Carlton Gardens.
- Another large group from Trans Queer Solidarity Naarm assembled directly at the Parliament steps.
- 11:15 AM: The Trans Queer Solidarity Naarm group at the Parliament steps was moved by police to the south side of Bourke Street.
- 11:40 AM: The CARF and NUS group, having mobilized at Carlton Gardens, marched to the Parliament House area.
- 11:40 AM: Approximately 20 members of the neo-Nazi National Socialist Network (NSN) were allowed by police to enter Spring Street. They formed a line facing north across the street, performed 'Sieg Heil' hand salutes, displayed a threatening and offensive banner, and chanted "kill paedo freaks" at the trans rights protestors. This was intended to provoke the arriving trans rights protestors. No police intervention was observed against the NSN group at this time.
- 12:03 PM: Police used OC spray for the first time, focusing their attention on the CARF/NUS group, which had established a cordon with multiple police members and the mounted unit facing them.
- 12:17 PM: The NSN group moved in formation up the Parliament House steps to a highly visible and central location and continued their 'Sieg Heil' salutes. (CK comments: This is false, the videos all show they move to the middle of the parliamentary stretch, but don't climb the steps at that point.)

- 12:49 PM: Over an hour after their arrival, police escorted the NSN group away from Parliament House, moving south along Spring Street.
- 3:00 PM: MALS Legal Observers concluded their monitoring and recording activities at the scene.

"On Saturday, 18 March 2023, Melbourne Activist Legal Support (MALS) fielded a team of seven trained Legal Observers at the opposing rallies on Spring and Bourke Streets outside Parliament House in Melbourne, Victoria. Legal observers were present from 10:30am until 3:00pm, monitoring and recording the actions of Victoria Police."

"British anti-trans rights campaigner Kellie-Jay Keen Minshull (also known as Posie Parker) led a speaking event on the steps of Parliament House. Groups associated with the anti-lockdown or 'Freedom Movement' and far-right groups attended in support of the Kellie-Jay Keen Minshull event.

Two separate groups of trans rights protestors had mobilised to counter-protest the Kellie-Jay Keen Minshull event.

One large group of approximately 200-300 people were mobilised by Campaign Against Racism & Fascism (CARF) and the National Union of Students Queer Department (NUS) at Carlton Gardens at 11:00am and marched to the Parliament House area at 11:40am.

A second large group of trans rights protestors from Trans Queer Solidarity Naarm gathered at the Parliament steps at 11:00am until they were moved to the south side of Bourke Street by police at approximately 11:15am. "
