

First answer these questions:

1. Which poster is your monster on (1,2,3,4 or none of them)?

4

2. What is the long scientific name of your monster? ((Find it in your notebook.)
duobranchiohumanobicycloviverraoculsosunicephelunicervicduopedduomanumalnode matoid

3. Paste a picture of your monster here, then start your story on the next page.

Start your story here:

Chapter I. Bythorne

It was a normal, bright day in Bythorne county, Winsconsin. Jonah, a new member of the Bythorne Paranormal Society is sitting in his apartment with his friend, also coworker, Adam Murray. Jonah is messing around on his phone while listening to a video of true crime. Meanwhile, Adam is in his room. Looking over photographs he took from other sites of where they were during the night jobs. Evelin Miller gets a call from a lady, the lady speaks over the phone, "Hey, is this the BPS?" The woman asked quizzically.

"Yes this is, how can I help you?" Evelin asks. The woman starts getting a tiny bit nervous,

"Hey... uhh, I was wondering if I can plan an appointment?"

Evelin looks behind her, back at the phone, then speaks up, "Sure, I will get one of our scouts on the phone. Please hold." Evelin puts the phone on hold. She walks to Adam's room and knocks on the door.

"Hey Adam, someone wants to book an appointment. Could you get on the line?" Evelin asks in a cold manner, still a bit irritated after her and Adam broke up.

"Fiiiine, I guess... But you gotta let me study these photos, okay?"

Adam says unamused. Evelin rolls her eyes at Adam before walking away from his room. Adam gets up and picks up the phone, "Adam Murray speaking." Adam mumbles, not wanting to do this.

"Hey, I would like to plan an appointment for 3 days," the woman mentioned. Adam, a little surprised for a three day appointment, speaks, a little nervous, "Sorry ma'am, we can't plan three day appointments."

The woman, not swayed, declares, "I can pay 500 a night."

Jonah, having heard the pay, shouts from the other room, "Let's do it!" Adam accepts, and starts questioning the woman.

"So where is the place for the appointment located?"

The woman answers almost immediately, "My house at 3567, Broadway street, Mandela County."

Adam nods before continuing, "Can you tell me what's been going on at your house, ma'am?" The woman answers, but a little more worried, "I can hear my cat meowing randomly, but the little guy passed away 4 months ago." Adam, curious and feeling sympathy, continues, "When should me and Jonah arrive?"

"As soon as you can," replied the woman. After the call, Adam gets Jonah to get ready to drive to Mandela County.

Chapter II. Mandela County

The drive is long and boring. Adam is driving while Jonah sits in the passenger seat. But during the middle of the drive, the car breaks down. "Not again... Jonah, help me get the car back up and running," Adam says while exiting the car.

"You know we can't be out in the open, right? We have multiple bounties on us in the state," Jonah replies to Adam.

"Look, we might be on the run, but we still got to make money; and besides it's just a minor issue," Adam retorts. Jonah grabs a bag of chips from the car, starts to eat the chips, and takes a picture of Adam, who was still trying to fix the car. The caption of the photo read, 'Adam fixing car while I eat chips lol.' After a long while, Adam fixes the engine with the help of a stranger, so Adam and Jonah get back on the road. Adam soon drives past a sign that read, 'Welcome to Mandela County'

Chapter II. Night One

It is a cold winter night in Mandela County. As Adam drives the car, Jonah talks to Adam about what the government is doing. "I just think that the government is trying to make a fake entity to scare the public from finding something out. I mean even the police stopped helping people who reported home invasions. So of course everybody is getting anxious." Jonah muttered.

"I mean, I don't think duobranhiohumanobicycloviverraoculsosunicephelunicervicduopedd uomanumalnodermatoids are real, but they always refer to these... things. As Alternates," Jonah continued. Adam sighed, knowing Jonah can be a little superstitious at times,

"Look, I get what you're saying, but let's just focus on the job. Okay?"

Adam responded. After another 20 minutes of driving, they get to the house. Adam and Jonah exit the car, and look for an opening. "Hey Adam, got an opening?" Jonah asked over a walkie-talkie.

"No, not yet." Adam answered. "You think we can bust the door down?" Jonah asked again.

"I'm not busting a poor woman's door down. There has to be another way in," Adam retorted. Adam looks through a window, and sees something, but doesn't pay close attention. After some struggle, Adam gets inside. "I'm going to set up some cameras, so tell me if you get any feed," Adam told Jonah.

Jonah was in the car again, just sitting inside it, then responded "Got it, I'll report if I can see anything." Adam nods to himself, then starts getting the camera's set up one by one.

"Alright Adam, I got some feed," Jonah said while holding a small monitor.

"I think I'm going to sleep in one of the rooms tonight, alright Jonah?" Adam muttered, being tired from installing cameras.

"Sure Adam, I don't really care where you sleep," Jonah claimed.

Chapter IV. Night Two

Adam walks around the house, looking for anything, while looking around, he sees the basement door. He tries to open it but it won't budge. "It's locked... But how?" Adam questioned himself. He took a quick picture with the caption, 'locked basement door.' Jonah continues watching the camera for anything unusual, but he sees nothing wrong. Jonah talks over the radio while eating crackers, "So what's your situation over in the house?" Adam keeps an eye on the basement door, wondering why it's locked. "Well the basement door is locked, so we can't enter that room." Adam replies.

"Well is it a minor problem or a giant problem?" Jonah asks.

"I think it's a big problem. Since we can't go in, we don't know what might be down there." Adam answers knowing it really is bad.

"But we can't let it stop the mission upon us." Adam continues.

Jonah, bored out of his mind, speaks up again, "Can you cut out the formal talk, it's getting on my nerves." Adam rolls his eyes and sighs, "Yeah yeah whatever Jonah." After a long time of searching, Adam sleeps on the floor of one of the rooms. But 20-24 minutes later, there is a robotic dangerously creepy voice that speaks to Adam, "YOU FOLLOWED THE SHEPHERD, YOU ARE A FOOL. FOLLOW MY VOICE INSTEAD. YOU WILL FIND GREAT HAPPINESS, DON'T MAKE ME WAKE THE OTHERS" But Adam doesn't wake. But he is woken up by CRT Television with a broadcast from EAS.

A robotic voice speaks through the TV, "We have been receiving countless reports of an unidentified hostile organism that we will refer to as 'Alternates.' We recommend you stay indoors, lock all windows, and keep a loaded firearm at all costs. Though we don't recommend contacting the alternate. We will allow you to execute the alternate yourself."

But before Adam can even realize what is going on, the screen goes blue, and there are three letters in yellow, 'M.A.D.' A man through the TV starts speaking, probably even a medical professional, "Metaphysical Awareness Disorder is a disease for when a person learns information not desired to be known. Only 3% of people that have had M.A.D in the past survived. While the other 97% passed away from self-inflicted attacks. To not receive M.A.D, it is stated to stay away from any religious scriptures, be around with family and friends, or see a therapist who can help you get through M.A.D." The CRT Tv shuts off, and Adam is left curious. He hasn't heard of M.A.D before, but he has heard of alternates. So he gets up, and walks around the house to make sure nothing is unusual. But there is nothing.

Chapter V. Night three

Jonah sits in the car, more paranoid as ever. He shifts in the passenger's seat while looking at the camera tapes. Then he speaks into the radio, "Hey Adam, do you think that we can keep doing these night shifts? We don't have enough food, water, or anything. I say we ditch and go get something to eat."

Adam keeps looking at the basement door, before sighing, "No, we can't just give up now. We still have one more night. One more."

Jonah sighs and keeps looking, Meanwhile, Adam is next to the basement door and starts asking questions, but then his radio turns on and he hears Jonah saying, "OH MY GOD BEHIND YOU!" after 'Jonah' says it one more time.

Adam shouts, "Jonah shut up!"

Jonah comes on the radio and says, "What in god's name did I do?"

Adam ignores Jonah and keeps searching. But after a few more minutes, Adam and Jonah start to argue. Jonah then starts speaking in a harsh tone, "I'm just... DEVASTATED that I'm not as broken as you still are with everything that's happened and I'm sorry that I can't keep helping you carry this burden. You never should have looked for [REDACTED] because she is dead and gone. But yet still make us do death marches with these jobs, and if, by some miracle you come out of that house, it won't actually be you, and I won't be there to confirm it."

Adam, enraged by what Jonah is saying, yells, "THEN JUST LEAVE THEN! LEAVE!" Jonah turns off his radio, and starts to drive away. Adam, still in the house, calms down. When he grabs the handle of the basement door, and twists. The door opens.

Chapter VI. Jonah

Jonah drives with the GPS on. But GPSs were banned after the alternates were reported. As Jonah drives, the dash cam gets low signal, and starts to glitch. Then Jonah hears a voice, a robotic eerie one. It speaks through the GPS, "YOU LEFT HIM TO DIE."

After the voices repeats its words. Jonah snaps and shouts, "GET OUT OF MY HEAD!" The car stops and Jonah exits the car, but he is met by the duobranhiohumanobicycloviverraoculsosunicephelunicervicduopedd uomanumalnodermatoid, and before Jonah could run. He is brutally murdered by the thing.

Chapter VII. Basement

Meanwhile in the house. Adam, unaware of Jonah's death, walks into the basement, where he sees a CRT TV. The screen on the TV has a picture of a cat behind a white background. But images of the call with Mark Heathcliff and Ceaser Torres from 1998, the wanted poster of Adam and Jonah, and then it stops at a woman's face that looks distorted and she has eyes that look broken and terrifying. Then a voice starts to speak. It was his mother's voice, but it wasn't actually his mom, it was the intruder. "Two in the field, one taken, one left. Two in the woods, one taken, one left. Two in the house, one taken, one left. TWO WANTED, ONE TAKEN, ONE LEFT." the intruder says, its voice sounds a lot like Adam's mother.

"Who are you?" Adam questions.

Then the intruder stops using Adam's mom's voice and speaks normally, "Do you remember how we became friends?"