

Trinity Annan
Prayer Circle Invitations
November 6, 2024

Below are some 'warm-up' prayer invitations, then particular prayer invitations. You are still invited to forward names or concerns to be included next week. Some names are printed without surnames, others kept private in consultation with Bill.

5 households from the congregational list, then a neighbouring United Church, a neighbouring ecumenical neighbour, and links to UCC and WCC prayers for the week. We don't just cumulate and repeat names indefinitely, but that doesn't mean we forget folks and stop remembering them in prayer, or that other names and identifiers are kept confidential but kept in prayer.

Remembrance Day falls on a Monday this year, but we'll observe it also on Sunday at Trinity Annan. What does it mean to you, to acknowledge WWI and WW2, the peace-keeping work, and the combatant roles of Canadians, and our military alliances, in this century?

We balance our prayers, as always, with ACTS:

Awe and adoration

Confession

Thanksgiving

Supplications

Awe and adoration – the 'WOW' prayers,

Confession – the 'SORRY' prayers,

Thanksgiving – the 'GRATEFUL' prayers,

Supplications – the 'PLEASE' prayers,

For members and neighbours in hospital

For all those for whom we have prayed over months and years now, lest they be defined and named only by their diagnoses, as they live with and do not only die from illnesses, for healing

Praying the Psalms

The psalms provide words to express and inform our prayers, shaping our conversation with God over a lifetime. Each week, you're invited to read the psalm appointed in the lectionary, silently and aloud, in a couple of translations. This week, the lectionary appoints Psalm 146

If you're not alone, let one read, and the other listen, then switch roles. Then sit and listen to the echoes, resonating with your community and the world around you. Imagine others praying the same psalm, in a chorus across time and space, sharing common words.
