

Here are the questions for the Twitter Chat scheduled for Monday, 1/20, at 8pm CT.

Q1 - What are some ways that you use short (1 to 5 minute) writing tasks to engage students? #TLAP

Q2 - What longer writing tasks do you assign that engage your students, and how do you help them stay engaged? #TLAP

Q3 - (Props hook) What writing “props” have you used - like toys, “mystery” objects, or a person/costume? #TLAP

Q4 - (Mozart hook) Have you found music a useful way to get kids writing? How? What kinds or songs? #TLAP

Q5 - (Picasso hook) How have you combined art/drawing/visual representation with writing? What kind? #TLAP

Q6 - What are your favorite ways to use technology to engage kids in writing? (Links appreciated!) #TLAP

Q7 - Wide reading/interests inspire what Dave calls “creative alchemy.” How do you help kids be creative when writing? #TLAP

Q8 - What kinds of limits/restrictions (word/sentence limits, forbidden words/letters) help engage your kids the best? #TLAP

Q9 - Do you ever ask the kids to write just for fun? How? When? #TLAP

Q10 - How do you engage students with feedback on their writing? #TLAP