

THE DOCTOR WHO ADVENTURE

Welcome to today's post where we will discuss the idea of a Doctor Who land. This land is called The Doctor Who Adventure, it is a Miniland inside Epcot's UK pavilion. With two attractions, a live stage show, two restaurants, and interactive experience. The land brings the world in the hit BBC television show to life. First we will talk about the lands location.

As you can tell from the map it takes up a majority of the pavilion and the exterior is themed to the Victorian Music hall

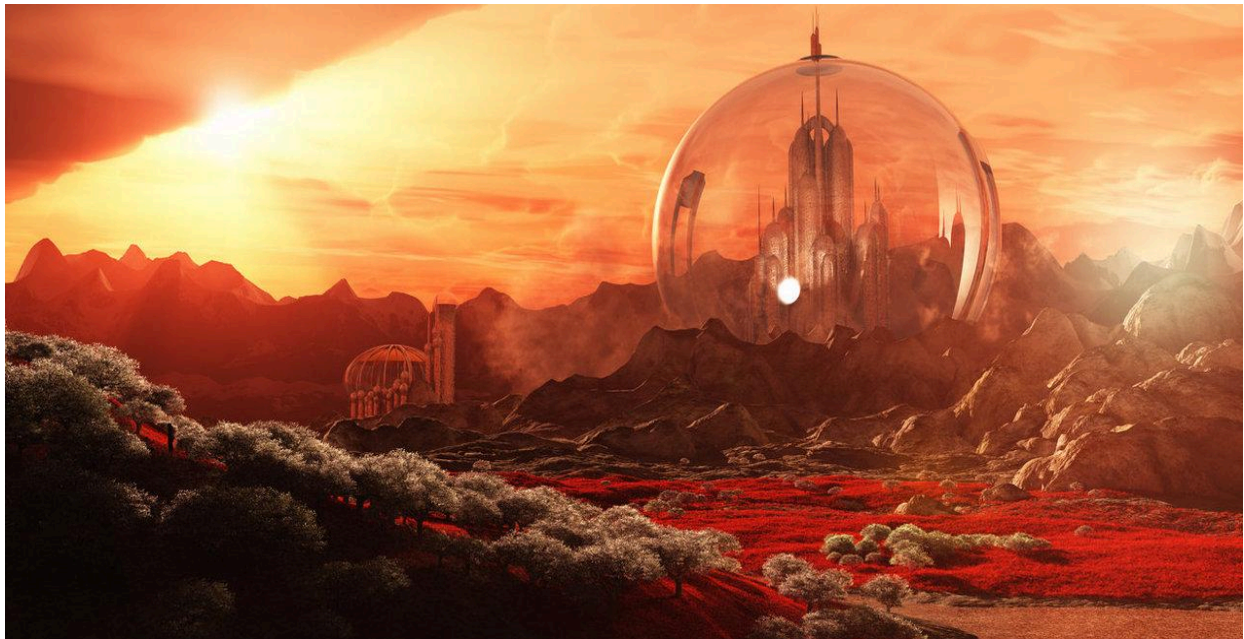

There will be one Tardis that guest can enter through if they wish (It will not lead into the console room). Once guest enter into the building they will be introduced to the famous Console room with doors that lead off to the rides, show, and restaurants. A photo op will be available by the console. The doors will lead to Clara's Soufflés (restaurant) And the Pandorica (quick service restaurant) Time Lord Academy (experience) Doctor Who: An Adventure through Space and Time (ride) Vortex Manipulator (ride) and The Doctor Who Experience (show). Clara's Soufflés will be much like Be our Guest in New Fantasyland but with a DW twist. It's decor will be reminiscent of the current companion Clara Oswin Oswald and will have three dining rooms. Each one will be based on the three times viewers have seen her in the Doctor's Timeline (see The Name of the Doctor, Asylum of the Daleks, and The Snowmen) that means a space age themed asylum, Christmas Victorian London, and a modern London Internet cafe. The menus would revolve around traditional British food and of course Soufflés. The next restaurant known as The Pandorica is based on the season 6 part 1 Finales (The Pandorica and Big Bang Two)

To serve food the round parts will open up like an awning. The food served here would be: fish and chips, and fish sticks and custard (actually cake made to look like fish fingers) , other more American styled food would also be offered to fit the palettes of Americans.

Time Lord Academy

The next area we will go to is the Time Lord Academy which will be a large kid activity center, it would allow kids to learn how to 'fly a TARDIS' make a Sonic Screw Driver and write basic Galifreyan in a River Song Journal:

. This area would allow kids and guest to relax or interact with the Whoniverse if they do not wish to ride the attractions.

The next ride is the true centerpiece of the miniland. It uses Sorin 2.0 technology and would be a beautiful representation of the show's heritage. The ride would start out by guest getting into a "Tardis" the Tardis would be uniquely designed to a specific Doctor's console room (12 to be exact) and would have a matching ineratronic doctor to interact with guest. But what is a ineratronic you may ask well it is a next-gen audioanamatronic. The eyes are replaced with cameras, its speaking system is controlled by a computer, and the ears with recorders. The eyes would send visuals to a computer so that it could choose specific things for the doctor to speak. This would be sent back to the doctor via computer to the speaking systems and would play a recording of the specific doctor's voice asking the question; a similar process for responses would occur except the ears would send information to the computer for the doctor's response. Next the Doctor would have a recording of dialogue for the show that guest would be shown. Each show would be specific to your doctor. The new technology's do not stop with doctors as the ride vehicle itself is amazing.

The ride vehicle is inside a large tube-like structure with three other ships, the vehicle is covered and has side windows for vortex imaging. the seating is like that of the Star Tours, but it can move upside down, extend, and move vertically up and down. I wish I could find a link to the company that makes this system, but I will keep looking.

Vortex Manipulator (image belongs to youtuber Hethethethscorchio)

This ride is aimed for kids and is a Doctor Who twist on the tea cups. The guest will get on their own Tardis in an area like the WDW teacups canopy (with Vortex images surrounding the entire roof and walls). The Tardis' will spin around for 3 minutes.

The Doctor Who Experience

A few months ago I saw that there was a Doctor Who play that is England, ideally this play would be moved here, so American fans may experience the show. The show centers around a friend of the Doctor teaching us about space and time when the Doctor's enemy the Daleks come and take over until the Doctor saves the day. I can't find a video for it although I wish I could.

So that does it for my entry! I hope you enjoyed, thanks!
