Personality

Mikael is a very energetic person, the type to never grow tired of talking and going to do something fun, all that energy does come in handy for his gymnastic career at least. He is also known for being rather naïve and trusts others way too easily, so much so that he thinks when people are being hateful to him or dislike him that they're just having a bad day and don't mean it. It takes him quite a time to realize that someone is actually just out to be mean to him because they dislike him, showing he has a bit of an oblivious or dense side to him. He can be pretty stubborn but he does genuinely mean well and ultimately just see's everyone around him as a friend even if they aren't seeing him the same.
