The State Security Service (SSS), self-styled as the Department of State Services (DSS),^[1] is a security agency of Nigeria and one of three successor organisations to the National Security Organization (NSO). The agency is under the Presidency of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, and it reports its activities to the office of the NSA.

Its main responsibilities are within the country and include counter-intelligence, internal security, counter-terrorism, and surveillance as well as investigating some other types of serious crimes against the state. It is also charged with the protection of senior government officials, particularly the President, Vice President, state governors and visiting heads of states and governments with their respective families.

It is headquartered in Abuja. According to the 1998 Presidential Proclamation, the SSS operates as a department within the Ministry of Defence and its under the control of the National Security Adviser.

FRSC RELEASES TOLL-FREE EMERGENCY LINES

The Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC) has urged road users to use its toll-free 122 line to report emergencies.

FRSC also has a 12-digit emergency line – 0700 2255 3772.

Zonal Commander of FRSC, Mr Samuel Obayemi, who is in-charge of Abia, Ebonyi, Enugu and Imo States, noted that the toll-free line should be used to get to FRSC National Operations Control Centre Abuja, where assistance can be received for any issue on the roads in the country.

He said that the line, also known as FRSC code number, was the surest and quickest means to get the attention of the corps even when its patrol teams and unit command situated on the roads were not easily visible.

“The toll-free 122 line is an express dial emergency number to get the FRSC National Operations Control Centre, Abuja for compliant on any development or issues on the road.

“You can dial and report any accident involving vehicles or other objects on the road.

“You can report on activities of road users especially drivers, who drive recklessly at the detriment of lives of other road users, so that the control centre can get to the nearest FRSC patrol team on the same road to stop the reckless driver.

“Even, you can use it to report any of our staff, who is deviating from his duty or becoming unprofessional in the discharge of his or her duty on the road,” he told NAN.

The zonal commander also said that the control centre also received criminal and hoodlums threats on the road, related to the nearest unit or sector command to get the attention of the law enforcement agencies.

“The FRSC National Operations Control Centre, Abuja has been instrumental to the smashing of activities of criminals on our roads through road users report to the centre via 122.

“Since, we have effective collaboration with the police, Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC), and the military, they usually respond to the intelligence on crime the centre gives to the nearest unit and sector command.

We must laud other sister security agencies, the Nigerian Army, Nigeria Air-Force, the National Emergency Management Agency (NEMA) and the motoring public for their support to our special operation.

CONTENT: EMERGENCY SITUATIONS THAT COULD BE REPORTED – ROBBERY , ACCIDENT , SEXUAL ABUSE

An emergency is an urgent, unexpected, and usually dangerous situation that poses an immediate risk to health, life, property, or environment and requires immediate action.^[1] Most emergencies require urgent intervention to prevent a worsening of the situation, although in some situations, mitigation may not be possible and agencies may only be able to offer palliative care for the aftermath.

While some emergencies are self-evident (such as a natural disaster that threatens many lives), many smaller incidents require that an observer (or affected party) decide whether it qualifies as an emergency. The precise definition of an emergency, the agencies involved and the procedures used, vary by jurisdiction, and this is usually set by the government, whose agencies (emergency services) are responsible for emergency planning and management.

DEFINING AND EMERGENCY

An incident, to be an emergency, conforms to one or more of the following, if it:

- Poses an immediate threat to life, health, property, or environment
- Has already caused loss of life, health detriments, property damage, or environmental damage
- has a high probability of escalating to cause immediate danger to life, health, property, or environment

Types of Emergencies

- Armed Conflict.
- Natural Disasters.
- Technological or Man-Made Hazards

The following are some of the responses to emergency {ROAD ACCIDENT }

- Call the FRSC ,the police and other security agents
- Give first aid to victims if you can
- Make effort to control the traffic so that caregivers can easily get to the scene
- stop at the scene of the accident
- Turn off your engine ,leave your hazard light on to alert on coming traffic to the accident
- stay as calm as possible do not shout or scream
- Take pictures or video of the scene if possible
- Call the emergency lines,
- take the victims to the nearest hospital

The following are some of the responses to Emergency – Robbery

1. Immediately call the local police department.

2. Close and secure the office until the police arrive. This procedure will help preserve the scene of the crime for fingerprints and other physical evidence.
3. Preserve any notes that the robber may have written, such as a request for money/valuables.

Initial flood response activities will focus on investigating the area for unsafe conditions and then controlling the source of the flood, preventing water damage, removing the flood water, and drying or removing damaged materials.

In 2014, the government approved '112' as Nigeria's toll-free emergency number for fielding and dispatching distress calls. A number Nigerians could call to get a swift response from health, security, and other services.

The following are some of the response to emergency – FLOOD

1. Find safe shelter right away.
2. Do not walk, swim or drive through flood waters.
3. Turn Around, Don't Drown!
4. Remember, just six inches of moving water can knock you down, and one foot of moving water can sweep your vehicle away.

Flood Response Tips:

- Develop and maintain an emergency preparedness kit that will get you through the first 72 hours of an event.
- Keep emergency supplies gathered in a portable and flood/rodent-proof container with food, water, safety and hygiene supplies for all family members.
- Know how, and under what circumstances, to turn off utilities.
- Keep appropriate tools, including a flashlight and an adjustable wrench, where they will be readily accessible when you need them.
- Flood cleanup activities may involve the use of gasoline- or diesel-powered pumps, generators, and pressure washers. Because these devices release carbon monoxide, a deadly, colorless, odorless gas, operate all gasoline-powered devices outdoors and never bring them indoors.
- Cleanup workers are at serious risk for hypothermia. Standing or working in water which is cooler than 75 degrees F will remove body heat more rapidly than it can be replaced, resulting in hypothermia.
- To reduce the risk of hypothermia, wear high rubber boots, ensure that clothing and boots have adequate insulation, avoid working alone, take frequent breaks out of the water, and change into dry clothing as soon as possible.

Flood Safety Tips:

- Do not walk through flowing water. Drowning is the number one cause of flood deaths. Currents can be deceptive; six inches of moving water can knock you off your feet. Stay away from riverbank edges and urban streams.
- Do not drive through a flooded area. During flood events, more people drown in their cars than anywhere else. Don't drive around road barriers; use travel routes recommended by local authorities.
- Stay away from power lines and electrical wires. The number two cause of flood-related deaths is electrocution since electrical currents can travel through water. Report downed power lines to the power company or City emergency services by dialing 9-1-1.
- Have your electricity turned off by the power company. Some appliances, such as television sets, keep electrical charges even after they have been unplugged. Don't use appliances or motors that have gotten wet unless they have been taken apart, cleaned and dried.
- Look out for animals. Small animals that have been flooded out of their homes may seek shelter in yours. Use a pole or stick to poke and turn things over to scare away small animals.
- Look before you step. After a flood, floors and stairs can be covered with debris such as mud, broken glass, and other sharp objects.
- Be alert for gas leaks. Use a flashlight to inspect for damage. Don't smoke or use candles, lanterns, or open flames unless you know the gas has been turned off and the area ventilated.

FRSC RELEASES TOLL-FREE EMERGENCY LINES

The Federal Road Safety Corps (FRSC) has urged road users to use its toll-free 122 line to report emergencies.

FRSC also has a 12-digit emergency line – 0700 2255 3772.

Zonal Commander of FRSC, Mr Samuel Obayemi, who is in-charge of Abia, Ebonyi, Enugu and Imo States, noted that the toll-free line should be used to get to FRSC National Operations Control Centre Abuja, where assistance can be received for any issue on the roads in the country.

He said that the line, also known as FRSC code number, was the surest and quickest means to get the attention of the corps even when its patrol teams and unit command situated on the roads were not easily visible.

“The toll-free 122 line is an express dial emergency number to get the FRSC National Operations Control Centre, Abuja for compliant on any development or issues on the road.

“You can dial and report any accident involving vehicles or other objects on the road.

“You can report on activities of road users especially drivers, who drive recklessly at the detriment of lives of other road users, so that the control centre can get to the nearest FRSC patrol team on the same road to stop the reckless driver.

“Even, you can use it to report any of our staff, who is deviating from his duty or becoming unprofessional in the discharge of his or her duty on the road,” he told NAN.

The zonal commander also said that the control centre also received criminal and hoodlums threats on the road, related to the nearest unit or sector command to get the attention of the law enforcement agencies.

“The FRSC National Operations Control Centre, Abuja has been instrumental to the smashing of activities of criminals on our roads through road users report to the centre via 122.

“Since, we have effective collaboration with the police, Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC), and the military, they usually respond to the intelligence on crime the centre gives to the nearest unit and sector command.

We must laud other sister security agencies, the Nigerian Army, Nigeria Air-Force, the National Emergency Management Agency (NEMA) and the motoring public for their support to our special operation.
