What Are The common Prices of Exclusive Right Beats?

Exclusive instrumentals will vary in price from producer to producer. The standard or average prices for exclusive rap beats online is seem between $50 - $2000. The price will vary due to the popularity of the lease, the promotional value of the beat for the producer.

What Happens Some Buys The Exclusive Beat License To A Beat I Have Purchased A Non Exclusive License Of?

This is a common concern that I hear from hip hop artists that hear online. While most producers continue to honour the original lease license for the given length of time that lease has been set too.

It's best to make sure that you always read the full terms of the beat lease agreement from every producer that you end up purchasing hip hop beats from.

Look for when the lease agreement ends. That being said if you have made a truly amazing song using a producers beat and you have a plan on how to distribute that song with a good ROI plan, it might be time to negotiate a price with music producer for the exclusive rights.

If I Download Free Beats From A Beat Makers Site Is This Considered A Lease?

No! Most music producer offer free downloads on their website to invite new hip hop artists to trail their instrumentals.

The free download are mostly for audition and personal recording. This gives the rap artist the chance to see if he or she can actually write a song to a beat without spending money on instrumentals that they never end up using.
