Dear Fisher Unwin

I enclose [a] paragraph about Sister Teresa and Evelyn Innes.

About the charge of ten per cent which you claim on the book rights of Sister Teresa, I will merely say that I will pay ten per cent on the sum which is advanced by the American publisher, but you must understand that you have no further claim on the book.

I also stipulate that our agreement for these books, Evelyn Innes and Sister Teresa, comes to an end after a term of years. I cannot agree to publish Sister Teresa on other terms than these.

The modification is so slight that I do not think you will raise any objection, especially when I tell you that I have no present intention of withdrawing the books at the expiration of the term. I hope you will go on publishing for me till the end.

If I am right in supposing that you will raise no objection, will you please to send me an agreement embodying these new facts.

Truly yours
George Moore
