

-- Dark Paths of Riddleport --- Session 39 --- 131124 ---

The Elven camp is alive with a quiet energy as everyone prepares for the assault on the Drow encamped in the city of Celwynvian.

Bodi and Aragon have recently returned to camp from some pre-assault missions into the nearby forest. They are both patched up by the healers before re-joining their Crew.

Aragon has his damaged armor patched up quickly.

Aragon switches from his boots to his Drow slippers

Aethel has prepared a number of rings and/or stones with light magic on them

Eviana addresses the assembled warriors and then sends them into battle.

Keaerishiel marshals his troops and within moments everyone is on the move.

Sairalinde joins up with your group, nodding silently to Aragon.

Aragon acknowledges her.

(Sairalindë ) Are you all ready to do this?

(Bodi) You got it babe!

Snargash: Somehow, I think I've been getting ready for this my whole life.

Guy: Yes, let's get on with it.

Sairalindë says "Lets go!"

Snargash: first thing in the morning I made sure my spare bandage load was passed to the other healers

(GM) Saira leads you through the forest to the library. You pass several other groups of Elves getting into position on the way. They nod to you and some pass quiet messages of luck.

Sairalindë says ""This is the library we are supposed to take. My companion is set up on that hill across the road to give us cover.""

(GM) There is cover to approach the building from either the east or the north.

Bodi: I don't know about the rest of you, but I was out on a small skirmish patrol and we encountered some resistance

Paal: Lets approach under cover and move along the wall towards the door

Bodi: Sounds like a sound plan

Paal: Does anybody have a crowbar, lockpicks or spell to get through the door if it is locked?

Guy: Not me

(GM) There is not a lot of cover, but there is some.

Bodi: I have lockpicks....I borrowed....

Bodi winks
