

Hi planet earth!

My name is Aaron Avila

Let me start by sharing my story.

I'm sure my life was a lot like most on planet earth. Trying hard to make something of myself. Married to the love of my life Rebecca Avila for almost 20 years until one day as fast as lightning strikes our lives were cataclysmically and catastrophically turned upside down!

The morning of this cataclysmic life event happened was like most mornings, up at 5am, get showered and ready for work (self employed 12 years) but little did I know, in the blink of an eye, life as I and Rebecca knew it would be dramatically and violently altered forever.

We were instantly and irreversibly hurled into a life of darkness, struggle and where my very life was hanging in the balance.

You see I had a brain aneurysm explode in my head and now I faced certain death. Look for more details in my book I'm going to write someday called "\(Aaron's Stroke Chronicles\)"

My wife was told by the medical staff that I had suffered a grade 5 brain aneurysm (The worst). They prepared for the inevitable by telling her more than likely I was going to die and if I did live that I would be a vegetable because of the brain damage that had occurred from the stage 5 brain aneurysm.

The medical staff set me up in a bereavement room and called my family in to say their last goodbye's.

After I survived the first 24 hours, I'm sure to their surprise, they immediately drilled holes in my skull to alleviate the pressure on my brain from swelling and installed titanium coils into the aneurysm site to stop the bleeding in my brain.

As is surviving what most do not. a grade 5 brain aneurysm. Two weeks later and still on life support, a microscopic fleck of the blood clot from the aneurysm site traveled to another part of my brain landing on it triggering a major stroke. Look for more details in my book I'm going to write someday called Aaron's Stroke Chronicles.

I realize now, whether we live or die is not up to a Doctor's skills or a medical procedure. No, our/your life is held in the palm of the creator of the universe's hand. I'm proof! It was God's divine will I live but according to man I was for sure supposed to die.

But the creator of the universe is not bound by odds. In fact a miracle is when God, through his almighty power bends the laws of nature for you.

Look peeps! I'm alive when I should be dead! I am a true blue act of God miracle!

I have so many powerful things to tell you! I have witnessed God do many miracles in people's lives. I have personally felt the energy and presence of the Creator of the universe so strong and so powerful on many occasions when I would be helping another stroke survivor left hopeless because of their stroke and identifying we both believe in God, All of a sudden we on other parts of the world would feel the presence of God like never before! God's powerful energy would become so strong it felt like we were all sitting in the same room! Human words can not describe the feeling. A miracle I've experienced many times over.

Oh yes stroke survival is the hardest life event a human can face on planet earth. But for me it has been the most powerful spiritual awakening life event I could ever go through. I have been chosen to see the total truth of my life and all mankind's life on planet earth.

I can't walk, yet I walk around the world. I don't speak well, yet I speak hope to thousands of stroke survivors like me around the world.

I've heard the most powerful words a person can hear on planet earth. "You saved my life, thank you".

Here it is planet earth!

Everything God has led me to create over the last 2+ years!

I can take no credit for anything I created. God, through this catastrophic life event called stroke and the gift of a near death experience, transformed my life to a globally powerful divine expression of who God truly is.

Please know I have experienced so much more but my stroke brain can't write anymore. Sorry!

More later!

Powerful love energy sent your way,
Aaron Avila

When I would see the awesome things God was leading me to create, I would ask what he was building? God would reply in a peace filled quiet voice, "I am building something the world has never seen before".

So without further adue. I give you planet earth all God has created using me!
