He has a lot of subscribers (400 000) but his videos now have around 500 views, which could be better. He is producing great self-defense videos because he is Krav Maga's coach and one of the best fighting instructors. His videos had good views but 8 years ago... His videos had around 800 000 + views at that time. Now he needs to adapt to modern methods of getting views and attention.

SL: Reclaim your throne with this simple change.

Hey Nick,

Your videos demonstrate your mastery of Krav Maga and martial arts, showcasing the ability to protect yourself and your loved ones in any critical situation.

However, like a great warrior, Sun Tzu said: "Even the finest sword plunged into salt water will eventually rust."

After analyzing your views history, I discovered flaws that caused a decrease in views.

Fortunately, just like we can restore the sword, we can get your channel the views and glory you deserve.

All it needs is some changes.

I would start by rewriting your video descriptions so it is more engaging and fun for the viewer.

And because claiming things without any proof or work is against my moral code, I sent you a sneak peek of my work which is one of your descriptions rewritten.

If you are ready to reclaim your glory, all you have to do is reply "Yes" to this email, so we can hop on a call to discuss things further.

Best regards,
