About Austin Auclair and PatientRock

Austin Auclair (he/him) is an independent game developer based in Maryland, USA. Austin comes from a background in professionally creating scavenger and puzzle hunts, and other augmented reality experiences, but loves games of all kinds and generally has too many hobbies. He officially launched PatientRock in 2024 to formalize his video game development journey and looks forward to releasing many more games in the future, increasingly designed in collaboration with his son.
