

I always say, you know, if there is one thing I could spend my life on its telling stories and I am totally drawn to oral history and I think that's what made me want to be a journalist. But I think how I've manifested that in my political life is my goal is to stand up for the stories of the people in my district. So that's my favorite thing about my job, is getting to go door to door to door and getting to meet different people and find out what drives them and what concerns them and be able to be their representative and share those stories on the floor. And so that how I've sort of shifted my focus.
