Newsletter Blurb #1

A new survey from ecoAmerica reveals that most Americans oppose President Trump's recent executive orders that reverse progress on climate and clean energy solutions. The majority are concerned about climate change, with younger Republicans breaking ranks with their party's older generation on climate consensus. Find out more in the full report!

Newsletter Blurb #2

A new survey from ecoAmerica finds that more than half of Americans oppose President Trump's recent executive orders reversing progress on climate and clean energy solutions, with the majority concerned about climate change. Findings also reveal a striking generational divide among Republicans, where younger Republicans under 45 share national concerns, with many seeing the harmful impact of rollbacks — especially on clean jobs — even more starkly.
