My Fable

Once upon a time there was a boy called "Yasin". Yasin was from Iraq, he came to USA with his parents to start a new life. Yasin was really nervous because his parents told him that he had to go to school.

The next morning Yasin went to school. When he got there a boy called Max looked at him in a really strange way. Yasin did not understanding what was going on. When Yasin went to talk with the boy (called Max). Max made fun of Yasin. He made fun of his name and his religion.

Yasin was really upset. The boy kept doing the same thing. Then suddenly Max made Yasin cry. Max felt really bad for Yasin. The next morning Max apologised to Yasin for making fun of him. Yasin accepted the apologise, and explained to Max why he was crying. When Max heard this he was shocked and a shamed of himself.

Days past Max and Yasin were now best friends. Moral Lesson: Never ever make fun fo someone or their religion. It's not nice!

The End! Down below is another picture.
