

Write for the National WRITE Center Blog Post Guidelines

Our Purpose.

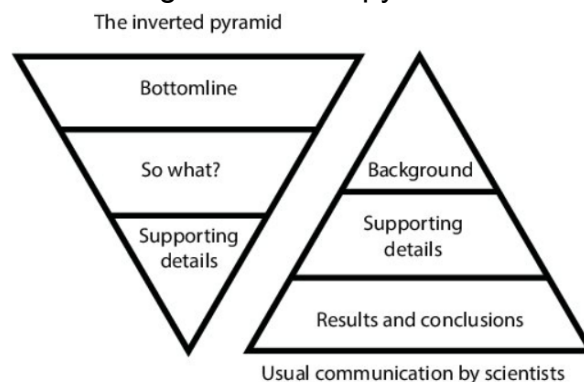

The WRITE Center blog is a space to share your work related to writing research, teaching, and learning. Our goal is to build a broad learning community and to connect our community to relevant information, resources, and scholars focusing on a variety of writing-related topics.

Before you Write.

Email us a brief description of your blog to thewritecenter@gmail.com

Author Guidelines.

- 1000 -2000 words
- Address our national audience of educators, school leaders, and researchers
- Provide a clear description of your work, focusing on practical takeaways
 - Here is an example that you may find helpful.
- Organize your content using the inverted pyramid structure

- Include images, clear figures, and links to outside material, whenever possible
- Include a headshot photo, and a 1-2 sentence bio
- Provide links to your webpage, and, if you wish, an email, twitter, and/or LinkedIn account.
- Submit your post to us at: thewritecenter@gmail.com
 - We may edit your post or provide our suggestions for revision before posting.
 - We ask that your article not be published elsewhere previously. If you'd like to republish a guest post that ran on the WRITE Center site, please wait at least 2 weeks to do so.
