

Writing Case Studies

Case studies are a record of findings on the development of an individual, group, or situation over time in relation to a phenomenon.

The assignment is to write a two-page case study based on the following choices. You will write one case study per unit for a total of three. Include works cited, images (with attribution), and a design and format that's appealing to explore. Your score is based on our five power standards (below).

I can understand and all parts of a problem.

I can evaluate sources in terms of their value and limitation in relation to a problem.

I can group evidence according to themes by correlating main ideas among sources.

I can write a thesis statement that responds to all parts of a problem.

I can use evidence to support a claim and reason.

Case Studies

Options

China

- Chairman Mao

India

- Ghandi
- Partition of India

Middle East

- Islamic Revolution in Iran
- Resources
- Arab-Israeli Conflict

Questions

What is the significance of the subject of the case study?

How did the subject contribute to a phenomenon over time?

What experiences or circumstances prepared the subject for the phenomenon?

What can we learn from your subject that helps us in other contexts?

