

Lanslot (the king's youngest son), he is the ugliest person in the kingdom, but he has a kind heart, and he often helps people in need. Lancelot's brother Alexander is very handsome. Many people are attracted by his appearance, but his personality is very arrogant and rude, and he is also bad to his brother.

The king said to his two sons that the princess of the next kingdom was going to marry recently. Go and have a look and see the world by the way.

So they set out for the neighboring country and set up several levels in the princess. Only those who passed through had the opportunity to propose to the princess. In the end, only the two brothers passed through all the relevant cards. They went to see the princess. The princess was immediately attracted by her handsome brother, so she decided to invite her brother to enjoy the flowers together the next day. The younger brother returned to the room a little lost.

The next day, it rained heavily at the agreed time, and the princess kept her promise. But Alexander broke his appointment. On the way back, the princess ran because he didn't bring an umbrella. At this time, Lancelot happened to be walking nearby, so he held an umbrella for the princess and sent her back to the palace.

After the princess successfully returned to the palace, she felt that Lancelot was the person she could entrust, so Lancelot finally married the princess.