

There it is.
Mount Caelum.
The home of the Gods,
Once my own home.

They sit there,
Watching my every move,
And they have done nothing.
Nothing to end my torment.

But nothing to stop me from getting to them...

Perhaps they want me to kill,
To destroy every last vestige of life.
After all, why have none of them stopped me?
Are they afraid?

Yes... They must be.
They thought they could stop me.
And here I am,
At their very doorstep.

They must see me,
Rising above every rock and cave,
My wings carrying me into the heavens,
The same heavens that cast me into Hell.

I am close, I must be.
The clouds are now behind me,
And the sun is in full view.
I am so close.

She must be there,
That... mage.
Who took everything from me.
She will be the first to see me.

So I shout to her and her alone.

I know it was you Mage,
YOU GAVE THEM THE TOOLS TO TRAP ME.
COME. LET ME KILL YOU.
A HUNDRED TIMES ISN'T ENOUGH!

Caedes

"They will call me a God-killer. For my imprisonment, they shall suffer!" - Caedes