☐ 1-3 main results of the community service article

INTRODUCTION

The introduction explains the background and objectives of the community service activity. The background should present a situational analysis and identify the issues that justify the implementation of the community service. The objectives should describe the intended solutions to be achieved through the activity.

The introduction and subsequent sections must be written in Times New Roman, 12 pt font, in softcopy format, on A4 paper size. The page margins should be 3 cm on all sides (top, bottom, right, and left). The text should be aligned justified (left and right). Tables and figures should be adjusted to fit the column width and length as necessary.

Subsections within the introduction are not separated into smaller parts; instead, the introduction should be presented as a unified, cohesive narrative. It should begin with a direct statement addressing the main topic or issue. Use and develop relevant keywords according to the topic and problem, and arrange them into grammatically correct sentences using formal academic language. The presentation must be chronological and systematic, with a clear logical flow between one paragraph and the next.

Citations within the article must include the author's name and year. For references with three or more authors, use "First author et al." For in-text citations at the beginning of a sentence, examples include: Brody (2009), Evans and Lindsay (2005), Siradjuddin et al. (2016), Hardinsyah et al. (2003; 2006). For citations at the end of a sentence, use: (Lindsay, 2001; Brody and Tom, 2008; Raisinghani et al., 2011).

The reference list should be arranged alphabetically by the authors' last names, and follow the example formatting provided in this guideline. (Maximum 1.5 pages only/600 words).

METHOD

The method section describes the stages or steps involved in implementing the proposed solution to address the problems identified in the community service activity. Essentially, this section explains the implementation process and the method used in the service program. The description of the implementation includes the location, time, participants' background, and the number of participants. Meanwhile, the description of the methods includes the approach and types of activities conducted, such as training, counseling, mentoring, and others. The writing of all methods has been "melted" into one complete unit through narrative. There can be sub-chapters written if they need to be detailed.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The results and discussion should be written within the same section, without the use of subheadings. Avoid starting sentences with conjunctions or prepositions such as "whereas," "so," "and," "but," "however," "from," "as well as," "in," "with," "on," and "at." The results should be presented concisely, highlighting the outcomes of the community service activities that have been implemented. It is recommended that the results be supported with tables, charts, or figures as needed to enhance clarity and visualization of the findings. The discussion should explain the meaning and implications of the results obtained from the community service activities. This includes arguments, relevance, benefits, or limitations of the findings. Authors are encouraged to freely express and logically elaborate their arguments briefly, supported by relevant references. Each figure must include a caption placed below the figure. All figures must be numbered sequentially. Avoid placing figures or tables before they are mentioned in the main text. If a figure is large, it should be centered on the page with a centered title. If the figure is small, it should be placed in the center of a single or double column, with the caption justified. Similarly, for tables: 1) Large tables (with many columns) should be left-aligned and span the page width; 2) Small tables should also be left-aligned within either a single or double column.

Table 1. The captions in the table are also written above the table with capital letters at the beginning only, as are the titles in the table.

No	Name	Class	Amount
1	Aiman	XI.A	12
2	Musthafa	XI.B	23
Total

(Times New Roman 10-11 pt, adjusted to the size of the table)

Between tables or images, a narrative must be provided, either in the form of an explanation of the table or image, or additional supporting literature related to community service. Each Table and Figure displayed must be narrated with supporting sentences, either with personal information or with related references.

Figure 1: The captions on the figure must be visible below the figure. References using figures, tables, theorems must begin with a capital letter without a period separator. All accompanying captions are written in capital letters at the beginning only. Tables and figures must be placed in the body text and meet the standards for printing. Figures do not need to be framed.

CONCLUSION

The conclusion is the closing of the article. The conclusion is written without a number, and is presented in paragraph form. The conclusion is made narratively in 1 (one) paragraph or more, based on the results of the study, and does not include statistical figures. The suggestions given must be in accordance with the conclusions drawn. Provide suggestions for further community service if any.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Acknowledgements should be expressed appropriately and directed only to individuals or organizations that have made significant contributions but do not meet the criteria for authorship, such as the institution hosting the community service activity or the funding agency. This section should be brief, clear, and limited to a maximum of one paragraph.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

The authors declare that there are no conflicts of interest related to the publication of this article.

AUTHOR CONTRIBUTIONS

All authors contributed to the community service activity, including conceptualization and planning, development of the implementation methods, coordination with partners and participants, implementation of the activities, data collection and analysis, evaluation, interpretation of results, and manuscript preparation and revision. All authors approved the final version of the manuscript for publication and accept responsibility for the integrity and accuracy of the report of the community service activity.

Note: If individual author contributions differ, they may be specified by author, as follows:

[Author 1]: Conceptualization, activity planning, methodology development, and coordination of implementation.

[Author 2]: Activity implementation, partner mentoring, data collection, and activity documentation.

[Author 3]: Analysis and evaluation of activity outcomes, interpretation of results, and manuscript preparation.

[Author 4]: Supervision, validation, and critical revision of the manuscript.

All authors: Approval of the final version of the manuscript and accountability for all aspects of the implementation and reporting of the community service activity.

Final note: The contribution statement should reflect each author's actual role in the community service activity and manuscript preparation.

DECLARATION OF AI USE

The authors declare that generative artificial intelligence (AI) tools were used only to assist with language editing and grammatical correction. The authors remain fully responsible for the content and integrity of the manuscript.

REFERENCE

The bibliography is written in Harvard style, Times New Roman, 12 pt. The author's name is arranged in alphabetical order. The amount of literature cited should be sound but reasonable, minimum 15 references, and it is expected that 80% of them are current literature of the last 10 years. This section only contains references that are actually referred to in the writing using the Mendelay, Endnote, Zetero applications according to the Elsevier-Harvard style reference system (with titles).
