Appendix C. Code of Ethics

Chapter 1. Constitutionality

Section 101. Definitions and Groundwork

1. As stipulated in Section 404.1 of the ASG Code, "The Senate may determine standards of decorum and ethics, and compel the adherence to such standards by its members."
  1. Ethics shall be defined as an established framework of normative beliefs that will frame the way in which Senators interact with one another. Ethics encompass the intended purpose, i.e. the spirit, of the legislation in that ethics demarcate 'good' and 'bad' behavior.
    1. Legislation or speech may only be deemed 'unethical' following procedure outlined in the decorum code (Chapters 2 and 3).
  2. Decorum shall be defined as the rules of proper conduct among Senators used to uphold the ethics. Decorum shall be reached when rules are established such that all Senators have ethical avenues for expression and that those who do not conform to the ethics are punished in accordance with the penal code (Chapter 4).
    1. It is constitutional to punish a Senator or executive board member for acting unethically as a means of compelling said Senator or executive board member to adhere to the established ethical standards of the Senate.
      1. As the code permits punishment explicitly as a means of compelling adherence to the ethics, punishments are constitutional only insofar as they function to compel ethical behavior.
    2. Even if a given Senator or executive board member acts unethically, decorum will not have been breached insofar as they are properly punished for their transgression.

Chapter 2. Ethics

Sec. 201. Personal Attacks

1. Senators, non-Senators, and executive board members may not make ad hominem attacks on other students in the Senate during discussion, debate, questioning, or endorsement periods;
  1. Indictments ought to be targeted solely at a Senator's ideology, political stance, or remark, and not at that Senator's character;

2. Senators may not indict other Senators' ideologies if those ideologies are not relevant to topic of discussion at hand;
  1. A notable exception is during confirmation hearings, when the ideologies or relevant characteristics of an individual may be relevant in determining whether they will be well suited for the position;
    1. Senators may critique the character of the student whose confirmation hearing it is, only insofar as the indictment is relevant to the position for which that student is applying.

Sec. 202. Rules of Procedure

1. Senators, executive board members, and non-Senators may not speak out of turn while Senate is convened;
  1. A Senator may not interrupt another Senator, unless the Senator speaking is in violation of an ethics law (for proper procedure, see Section 3).
  2. A Senator may not address the Senate without having been called upon by the Speaker, unless it is to ask a question relevant to the current Senate procedure.
  3. The Speaker may make exceptions to 202.1 and 202.1.1 through 202.1.2 and otherwise regulate cross-talk at their discretion.

Sec. 203. Broad Generalizations

1. Senators, executive board members, and non-Senators, may not refer to any individual or group of people in the Senate using race, color, religion, creed, national origin, ethnicity, caste, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, parental status, marital status, age, disability, citizenship status, veteran status, genetic information, reproductive health decision making, height, weight, or any other classification -- for concision these will be henceforth referred to as identity labels -- without that group or individual's consent.
2. If the Senator speaking belongs to a given identity group, then they may refer to themselves using that identity label.
3. Senators may not use derogatory identity labels unless directly quoting from a relevant source of information.
  1. Senators may not use derogatory identity labels even if they belong to the corresponding identity group.
4. Reference to different identities ought to be made in a generalized sense - e.g. the LGBTQ community - but not to target a specific group of people in the room - e.g. gay and lesbian Senators.
5. Senators may not hold a given identity group accountable for any action.
  1. Identity groups do not act as a monolith.
6. While reference to identity groups in general is permissible, Senators may not make remarks about certain characteristics shared by all members of those groups.
  1. Note the use of the word 'characteristic,' which is not equivalent to 'struggle'.

Sec. 204. Arguing in Bad Faith

1. Senators, executive board members, and non-Senators may not deliberately argue by way of logical fallacies, such as but not limited to begging the question, a strawman's argument, pedantry, oversimplification, or any other fallacious argument. In addition, Senators, executive board members, and non-Senators may not make grandiose or blatantly untrue statements.
  1. If the validity or truthfulness of a statement is called into question by a Senator, executive board member, or non-Senator (in accordance with Chapter 3 of the Code of Ethics), then the disagreement will be pursued in accordance with the related parts of the Code.
  2. Purposefully presenting an invalid argument as sound in order to mislead shall be followed by penal measures; however, as stipulated in 301.3, if a senator merely erred in their reasoning and apologizes for their mistake and dismisses their comment as fallacious, then no further penal measures may be pursued.

Sec 205. Recording and Reporting

1. To ensure equitable, accessible, and safe coverage on Senate meetings of the Associated Student Government, all students wishing to report must abide by the following guidelines;
  - a. 'Attendees' references any ASG member or student body member present at a Senate meeting.
2. Any student attending a Senate meeting with the intention of recording is encouraged to sit at the designated press table, or at a location of convenience where they can observe and report on the meeting (e.g. back of room for filming);
  - a. Students not affiliated with Northwestern University student-run publication who wish to record are highly encouraged to notify the Parliamentarian prior to the Senate meeting.
3. Members of Northwestern University student-run publications who are covering Senate meetings and seek to quote student attendees are highly encouraged to obtain permission from the respective attendees prior to publication;
  - a. This is especially emphasized if the student's name or personal information would be mentioned in the publication, and mandatory if the publication of their words could result in a threat to the student's security;
  - b. Under the condition that a publication paraphrases, and does not disclose the student's personal identifying information, publications are still encouraged to verify permission.
4. In order to support freedom of the press, transparency between ASG and the Northwestern community, and student safety, special attention must be paid in regards to anonymity of students' statements;
  - a. In the event that an attendee (non-Senator) would like to remain anonymous, they have the right to be granted anonymity in cases where safety is a concern.

- i. If a student publication believes that they have reasonable cause to deny the student anonymity, they should bring it up with the Parliamentarian and attendee in question for further discussion;
    - ii. In the event a Senator or ASG Executive Board member would like to remain anonymous, they are highly encouraged to bring it up with the student publication and Parliamentarian for further discussion;
  - b. Attendees must abide by community guidelines for civil discourse at all times;
    - i. Failure to uphold these guidelines may result in intervention by the Parliamentarian or Rules Committee;
  - c. Attendees must communicate, either before the Senate meeting through their respective Senator or a member of the ASG Executive Board, or during the meeting via Slack or by contacting an aforementioned representative:
    - i. Their desire for anonymity with the press during the publication process;
    - ii. Any safety concerns with the press for further clarification;
  - d. To ensure the safety and accountability of ASG members, students may request any reporting references their position title rather than name;
  - e. The outcome of each case (i.e., discussion to resolve any disagreement over student anonymity) must be in agreement with the needs of ASG members, the press, and the student body.
- 5. In the event that the Senate votes to declare a meeting not public, whether it be private (see II.6.604.1.b.i.1) or closed (see II.6.604.1.b.ii.1), the press is expected to cease recording of the meeting during this period.
  - a. Recording is defined as taking notes, audio recordings, photographing, and filming.
  - b. All meeting attendees are expected to abide by the Code of Ethics and relevant community guidelines during this time;
  - c. In order to keep ASG transparent and accessible, the Parliamentarian will take notes throughout the duration of private or closed session, omitting any personal identifying information and summarizing any themes and concerns so that the Northwestern community will understand what occurred during the session, but student safety remains uncompromised.
- 6. In the event of a public live stream or other form of live coverage of a Senate meeting, reporters must announce their intentions for live coverage in advance;
  - a. The press announcement of live coverage must be done in a manner that allows attendees who seek anonymity to communicate their desire for anonymity with the press before live coverage;
    - i. Anonymity may be obtained by moving seating around, allowing attendees to sit outside of the camera frame. It could also mean stopping the live stream or other form of live coverage for the duration of private discussion.
    - ii. Anonymity may also be requested in other forms, and should be brought up to the Parliamentarian for further discussion.
  - b. During live coverage, all attendees are expected to abide by the Code of Ethics and relevant community guidelines.

Chapter 3. Decorum

Sec. 301. Points of Ethical Inquiry

1. If a Senator, non-Senator, or executive board member is in violation of Appendix E. Code of Ethics, Chapter 2 during Senate, then other Senators and executive board members may raise a Point of Ethical Inquiry, which takes precedence over all other points, statements, or motions. The Senator raising the inquiry - for the purposes of this Code termed the Plaintiff - once recognized by the Speaker, will then state which area of the ethics code they believe the other - for the purposes of this Code termed the Defendant - has violated. The Plaintiff must then choose whether they wish to pursue an immediate resolution in the Senate (as outlined in Chapter 4) or resolution through the judicial process by referring it to the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government.
  1. Senators may not violate the Code of Ethics when raising an ethical inquiry. If they do, their inquiry is void, and the comment of the original speaker will proceed.
    1. The Speaker will determine if the Plaintiff violated the Code of Ethics in the process of raising their Point of Ethical Inquiry.
    2. In a series of three or more consecutive ethical inquiries, the Senate is not in Decorum. The Defendant will continue their original comment, and all ethics violations will be submitted to the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government after the Senate is adjourned.
  2. Legislation not directly presented through speech is also subject to ethical scrutiny. If a Senator or executive board member believes a piece of legislation to be in violation of the ethics code, then the author of that legislation will be held accountable in the same way that the Defendant would.
  3. Raising a point of inquiry shall serve the purpose of having the Defendant clarify the meaning of their speech or legislation to the Plaintiff and Senate.
2. If the Speaker determines that there is ground for ethical inquiry, then the Plaintiff will have a maximum of two minutes to explain what they believe is the Defendant's violation.
  1. If the Speaker determines that the inquiry has no ground in the ethics code, the Plaintiff may motion an appeal to the Senate to override the Speaker's decision, which must pass by a two-third majority to be enacted.
    1. To motion an override, the Senator or executive board member who is motioning must specify precisely which clause of the ethics code they believe has been violated to give other Senators a point of reference.
3. Once the Defendant hears why they are suspected of an ethics violation, they must apologize, and will be given two minutes (in addition to their remaining speaking time, paused by the ethics inquiry) to rephrase their comment in accordance with the ethics code, or, if they do not believe themselves culpable, follow procedure outlined in 301.4.
4. If the Defendant does not believe they are culpable for an ethics violation, they may state this and give up to a two-minute explanation as to why they believe such.
5. Following this statement, the Senate decorum procedure ends, and the interrupted Senate proceedings will continue from precisely where the proceedings were paused. If the Defendant proceeds with 301.4, the Parliamentarian will automatically make an appeal to the Judicial Branch of the Associated Student Government for further investigation into the case on behalf of the Plaintiff, unless the Plaintiff states to the Parliamentarian that they do not wish to pursue further investigation.

1. If the Defendant states that they do not want to pursue an investigation, and a Senator other than the Defendant wishes to pursue further investigation, that senator may appeal to the Judicial Branch themselves.
6. If a Senator, non-Senator, or executive board member believes a piece of legislation to be in violation of the Code of Ethics, they may raise an ethical inquiry against the legislation only while it is New Business. Once a Plaintiff raises a Point of Ethical Inquiry against a piece of legislation, the ethical inquiry will be heard automatically by the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government, unless otherwise requested by the Defendant, before the legislation in question is poised to be heard as Old Business in the Senate.
  1. In the instance that the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government rules that the clause(s) in question need not be removed or “ethically amended,” Senators can opt to vote “no with a comment” and state, in two sentences or less, that they do not oppose the legislation as a whole, but a specific part for a specific reason.
    1. The “no with comment” option is only applicable if the vote is not by secret ballot.
    2. Senators may only use the “no with comment” options to bring up ethical issues, not issues of implementation, functionality, constitutionality, or efficacy.
7. Senators and executive board members may not raise the same ethical inquiry, against the same person, on the same subject, more than once in the same Senate session.
8. When bringing up a concern over a student’s character, empirical evidence must be provided to warrant the concern.
  1. Evidence of a given character flaw is necessary to avoid slander and give context to the concern at hand.
  2. Warranting the concern includes specifying why the character flaw is pertinent, not solely giving evidence of the flaw.
  3. Failing to provide evidence, or, alternately, a logical reason why evidence is not necessary or being excluded, constitutes an ethics violation.
9. If a Senator or executive board member believes another Senator or executive board member is using the ethics code not to establish decorum but to push a political agenda, they may pursue such an allegation by referring the specific actions/violations to the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government to determine whether the ethics are being implemented in bad faith.
  1. As stipulated previously, evidence must be provided when making such a claim. The active burden of proof is on the Plaintiff to prove that the violation was intentional.
  2. If a Senator is found to be acting in bad faith, they may appeal the decision to the Senate, who may override the judgment by a two-thirds majority.

Chapter 4. Penal Code

Sec. 401. Punishment

1. As the Code permits punishment explicitly as a means of compelling adherence to the ethics, punishments are constitutional only insofar as they function to compel ethical behavior;
  1. If the Defendant fully apologized during Senate, then further punishment is not necessary;
  2. Further punishment may be pursued if and only if the Defendant has been found to have multiple violations pertaining to the same area of the Ethics code.
2. If a Senator, non-Senator, or executive board member is found in violation of the Code of Ethics more than once in a Senate hearing, the Speaker may eject them from the Senate room, suspend their ability to speak for the duration of the congregation, or suspend their ability to vote on legislation since the judicial branch of the Associated Student Government cannot directly interject.
  1. The Parliamentarian, as the head of The Rules Committee, may motion to override the Speaker's decision, and bring said motion to a vote, requiring a two-thirds majority in order to pass.

Appendix D. Accountability for Sexual Misconduct

Chapter 1. Relevant Responsibility of ASG Members to the Undergraduate Student Body

Sec. 101. Membership Requirements

1. ASG must be held accountable to the undergraduate student body on the issue of sexual misconduct, and all members of ASG will undergo a Student Conduct Records Check conducted by ASG's advisor who will be the only person privy to the details of the records check;
  - 1.1. All members of ASG must sign an agreement consenting to quarterly conduct checks through the Office of Student Conduct and agreeing that, if their student conduct record check indicates that they have been found responsible for a sexual misconduct violation at Northwestern, they will voluntarily remove themselves from the organization and forfeit any privileges and positions afforded to them by their involvement in ASG;
  - 1.2. Other violations of student conduct shall not be considered, as the focus of this check is sexual misconduct;
  - 1.3. Current members of ASG who have not undergone a Student Conduct Records Check will undergo this check as soon as possible and sign the removal agreement.
2. ASG must be held accountable to the undergraduate student body on the issue of sexual assault, and all members of ASG Senate and the ASG Executive Board must undergo a training conducted by the Center for Awareness, Response, and Education (CARE), the completion of which shall be monitored and documented by the Parliamentarian;

- 2.1. All members of ASG must complete a training pertaining to dismantling rape culture, teaching proper protocol for reporting sexual assault, strategies for supporting survivors, and facilitating conversations on sexual assault;
- 2.2. All senators and executive board members must complete CARE training upon their appointment or election to ASG;
- 2.3. The Parliamentarian has the right to implement seat revocation upon the senator's failure to complete CARE training, as specified by II.ASGC.1.105.1;
- 2.4. Consequences for not fulfilling this requirement shall be assessed by the Committee on the Rules;
- 2.5. The completion of CARE training by senators who occupy a position on an ASG-funded student organization's executive board will satisfy this requirement but will not count toward the satisfaction of the executive board CARE training mandate for ASG-funded student organizations;
- 2.6. Senators and executive board members who do not feel comfortable completing CARE training may reach out to the Office of Equity at SexualMisconduct@northwestern.edu to receive an exemption from this requirement.

Sec. 102. Removal of Senators and Executive Officers Due to Sexual Misconduct

1. Should a Senator or Executive Officer be found to have a violation of Student Conduct related to sexual misconduct, they must resign as specified in their signed agreement and are hereby prohibited from re-entering the organization;
  - 1.1. The Senator or Executive Officer in question may appeal to the ASG advisor, and the advisor has the discretion to allow the Senator or Executive Officer to remain in the organization. This appeal can only be granted to students who have been found responsible for sexual misconduct violations that have not, in the ASG advisor's discretion, harmed another person;
  - 1.2. If a Senator or Executive Officer is removed or resigns before the Senate, a replacement will be found as per the procedure for an early vacancy for the position in question.

Sec. 103. Removal of Committee Members Due to Sexual Misconduct

1. All members of committees -- whether standing or ad-hoc or specialized committees -- will also be subject to a Student Conduct Record Check before beginning to serve on the committee;
2. Committee members must sign the same agreement given to Executive Officers and Senators;
3. Though not bound by the same rules or standing as the Senate and Executive Officers, all non-Senate and non-Executive Officer committee members, if found responsible for a sexual misconduct violation, must resign from their position immediately as per the signed agreement and are hereby prohibited from re-entering the organization;
  - 3.1. The committee member in question may appeal to the ASG advisor, and the advisor has the discretion to allow the Senator or Executive Officer to remain in the organization. This appeal can only be granted to students who have been found responsible for sexual misconduct violations that have not, in the ASG advisor's discretion, harmed another person;

- 3.2. If a committee member is removed or resigns before the Senate, the Chair or chair of the committee can address the vacancy as they see fit.

Appendix F. Student Organizations and Activities Constitutional Guidelines

Chapter 1. Guidelines

Sec. 101. Advisor

1. This RSO has an advisor. The advisor is a paid Northwestern staff member, faculty member, or graduate assistant and provides advisory support for the officers and members of the organization. In addition, our advisor completes required paperwork and may be expected to attend trainings or complete specific tasks as determined by SOA. Our advisor has reviewed available resources on the SOA website. This RSO is responsible for promptly communicating a change of advisor to SOA. This Organization is expected to identify a new advisor within 30 business days or risk forfeiting its RSO status. The organization is also expected to update 'Cats on Campus with this information.

Sec 102. Membership Eligibility

1. Members of this RSO are expected to meet minimum commitments as defined by the executive board. Members who fail to meet minimum commitments may receive written notice, potentially resulting in removal from future opportunities and ineligibility for returning to membership/executive board. Membership in this RSO is open to all enrolled undergraduate Northwestern students, except those exempted from Title IX compliance. Faculty, administrators, staff members, and alumni of Northwestern may also be invited to attend meetings and events at the discretion of the RSO leadership or advisor. Only enrolled students who are members may vote on decisions related to member positions (e.g., who should be the next President). For more information regarding policies pertaining to non-enrolled students seeking RSO involvement, please refer to the Non-Enrolled Students section in the Student Handbook.

Sec. 103. Executive Board Eligibility and Qualifications

1. Executive members in this RSO are full-time, degree-seeking students paying the student activity fee at Northwestern (unless otherwise approved by the Executive Director of Campus Life).

Sec. 104. Impeachment and Removal

1. Impeachment in this RSO is defined as removing a student from their executive board or officer duties. Impeachment from an executive board position does not remove a student from an organization altogether. Removal denies the opportunity for a student to be a member of the organization. Impeachment of an executive board member in this RSO must pertain specifically to the student's inability to meet the duties of their role as outlined in this RSO's constitution and may be initiated only after a direct conversation with the student(s) and an opportunity for them to correct the mistake or behavior. Examples of this may include failure to meet attendance expectations, task deadlines, or communicate in a productive manner. Identifying these expectations as explicitly and clearly as possible in the RSO's constitution is critical. General members whose roles may be loosely defined may not be impeached. However, failure for a general member to fulfill participation expectations may be considered in decisions related to appointing or electing board members. This RSO may not invoke removal of an individual member when behavior of concern is not outlined in the constitution. This RSO's members are encouraged to report concerns that might implicate policies within the Student Handbook to the Office of Community Standards or Office of Civil Rights & Title IX compliance accordingly.

2. Procedure for Officer Impeachment

If this RSO seeks to impeach a member from their specific role, the appropriate representative of the RSO must communicate this intention via email to:

A full-time SOA staff representative (studentorgs@northwestern.edu);
This RSO's Advisor

Sec. 105. Handling of Funds

1. This article outlines procedures for the handling of organizational funds. This RSO abides by Northwestern rules regarding handling of funds and may not function as a for-profit enterprise.
2. Section I - Student Organization Finance Office All funds collected will be deposited in our student organization's Student Organization Finance Office (SOFO) account. For organizations with an active SOFO account, SOFO serves as the chief authority for all University policies, procedures, and practices impacting the management of RSO funds. Questions related to RSO 8 accounting practices, reporting, fundraising, and/or any other financial activity should be directed to SOFO. Any RSO funds collected by Northwestern will be deposited in the RSO's SOFO account. Section II -
3. Dissolution of Organization All RSOs must clearly articulate how any remaining funds and/or outstanding debts will be managed if the RSO is dissolved. The RSO's plan must align with Northwestern's financial guidelines. After one year of inactivity, a SOFO account will be deactivated with any remaining funds no longer available to the RSO.

Sec. 106. Annual Review

1. This RSO will review its constitution annually during its leadership transition process.

Sec. 107. Statement of Non-Discrimination

1. This RSO prohibits discrimination and harassment on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, national origin, ethnicity, caste, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, parental status, marital status, age, disability, citizenship status, veteran status, genetic information, reproductive health decision making, height, weight, or any other classification protected by law (referred to as “protected statuses or protected characteristics”). Prohibited discrimination based on sex includes sexual misconduct, including but not limited to, sexual harassment, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, stalking, and dating or domestic violence. Such conduct violates Northwestern’s values and disrupts the living, learning, and working environment for students, faculty, staff, and other community members. Notwithstanding the above, an RSO may petition to restrict its membership where permitted under applicable law or guidance, as determined in the discretion of the University, based on (a) sex (e.g. fraternity and sorority membership, all-male or all-female performance groups, etc.), or (b) ability to perform core activities related to the organization’s mission (e.g., competitive teams or performance-based groups). Petitions must be submitted in writing to the Office of Campus Life and will be considered based on both the RSO’s constitution and its actual practices.

Sec. 108. Anti-Hazing Statement

1. It is the responsibility of all students/student organizations to encourage an atmosphere of learning, social responsibility, and respect for human dignity and to provide positive influences and constructive development for members and aspiring members. Hazing leads to dysfunction within the organization and is ineffective at creating teamwork, respect, and unity, and it is an unproductive and hazardous custom that is forbidden by the University. It is the responsibility of organizational leaders to familiarize themselves with Northwestern's definition of hazing, prevent and/or stop hazing from occurring within the organization, and report it when it does occur. Students can find additional information, including the policy, report form, and resources at the Northwestern Hazing Prevention website.

Sec. 109. Statement of Compliance With Campus Regulations

1. This organization shall comply with all Northwestern University policies and procedures, including but not limited to, those policies set forth in the Northwestern University Student Handbook, as well as local, state, and federal laws. This organization acknowledges that the University has the authority to investigate reports of discrimination, harassment, sexual misconduct, and student code of conduct violations made by University students against members of the student organization or the student organization, and to determine appropriate sanctions, which may include suspension or dissolution of the organization, restrictions on the rights of the organization to use University funds and/or facilities, and access to University services and resources. The organization's members' failure to comply with the University's policies may result in the University severing all ties with the student organization.
