

Eric Lucan Response to No ICE in Marin Coalition
March 2026

It is important to me, as it has been throughout all of my years of service, that every member of our community feel safe and respected; certainly, everyone should be able to trust public safety and know they will be equally protected. It's why I have worked so closely with residents and leaders from every community to understand what is most important for them and how we can best serve their needs and concerns.

Marin's $500,000 budget allocation at the beginning of 2025 for legal aid, family support, and our rapid response network reflect the needs of the community (and we will be making the same allocation again this year). After hearing from many in our community, we withdrew from SCAAP and the change made in August 2025 by the Sheriff to limit I-247 responses to only cases where there is a prior conviction (or the defendant was held to answer in a preliminary hearing) was also important.

I meet regularly with the Sheriff, and in general, my approach has always been grounded in collaboration, dialogue, and data—prioritizing real, meaningful change in the service of our residents. I continue to focus my efforts on providing support for our immigrant communities—taking my lead from those community members most impacted—whether that means standing up for resident rights, legal support services, protecting access to health care, fair housing, affordable childcare, and other social services.

I look forward to working together to bring about greater equity, respect, and opportunity for all.
