What is Humanity's Avenger

Humanity's Avenger is an sci-fi audio story about a man named Adam who is the last human being left alive that is seeking revenge on an alien ruler that destroyed Earth. He now lives on an alien planet with his dog, named Pal, that also survived Earth's destruction with him and his four muscular armed fat bodied blue alien boyfriend with a lump on his stomach that can stretch and morph into tentacles at his own will, named Zib. (Weird Ability he has, I know) They also meet a red female alien, named Ztar, who is an agent of a resistance group that's against Adonai and a robot, named Houston, that aids and protects Adam on his quest for vengeance. The alien ruler, named Adonai, is wanting to destroy Planet Coron, the planet that Adam and the others live on. Adam and the gang must stop him from destroying the planet by going to other planets and seeking Adonai's generals to kill them and take their hearts before time runs out. Their hearts can power up a machine that can create a force field to protect the entire planet from Adonai's planet destroying device. The characters will go by codenames when traveling to other planets and infiltrating the generals' buildings that they own.
